Committee Members In Angry Outburst

Washington, Jan. 16.—(P)—Representatives Bloom (D-N.Y.) and Fish (R-N.Y.) disputed with hot words and angry accusations today the House foreign affairs committee's handling of President Roosevelt's bill to aid Great Britain. The outburst came as the committee finished taking testimony from Secretary of War Stimson.

Bloom, chairman, announced the committee would hold an executive session in the afternoon to discuss procedure. Fish, a committee member, brought up the question of hearing eight witnesses next week. He invited the right to testify and they include Wendell L. Willkie, the Republican's 1940 presidential nominee.

Fish's reference to these eight set off an argument between him and Bloom as to whether Bloom had authorized him to "go ahead" and invite witnesses.

British Air Force Blasts German Naval Port at Wilhelmshaven Throughout Night, Also Bomb Docks at Emden, Bremerhaven and Flushing, as Combat Formation of Enemy Craft Make "Rolling Attacks" on Central England

CLAIM DIRECT HIT ON DOVER RAIL STATION

Berlin, Jan. 16.—(P)—Twenty persons were killed and 55 injured and several houses set afire in a British air raid last night on the major naval port of Wilhelmshaven, the German High Command announced today.

The daily communiqué said, however, that although "several incendiaries (bombs) flamed in the harbor section," they caused no "noteworthy damage" and that "prevented by the efficiency of air raid precautions and self protection squads."

The attack on Wilhelmshaven (the British said it was the 40th of the war on this naval base) was one of several carried out on places in northern Germany, the communiqué declared.

On the offensive side the High Command said combat formations of German aircraft made "rolling attacks" on war essential objectives in a central English city last night despite adverse weather and hampered other targets, including London, on a lesser scale.

Several direct hits were said to have been scored on the railroad station at Dover.

TWO ITALIAN SUPPLY SHIPS VICTIMS OF SUBS

By the Associated Press
The British Admiralty acknowledged today that the 6,100-ton British cruiser Southampton—one of three British warships damaged by Axis bombers off Sicily Jan. 10—has been sunk by British forces after it caught fire.

Royal Air Force headquarters at Cairo said between 30 and 40 aircraft were either burned or severely damaged in a previous raid on Catania Sunday night.

An Italian newspaper also reported that the British aircraft carrier Eagle was hit by a Fascist plane-launched torpedo in the Mediterranean area, where the Rome-Berlin Axis has unleashed a concerted aerial offensive against Britain's sea blockade.

The Admiralty said most of the Southampton's crew was saved. Its communiqué said a British submarine had sunk two Italian supply ships in the central Mediterranean. The torpedo hit on the Eagle brought to a total of 16 British ships—14 warships and two merchantmen—listed by the Italians as having been sunk or damaged since the Axis offensive began Jan. 9.

The aircraft carrier Illustrious and the 1,535-ton destroyer Galant were the other two British warships damaged. Both managed to reach port.

"HMS Southampton had subsequently to be sunk by our own forces when it was found impracticable to tow it into port," the Admiralty said.

ACCIDENTS AND DEATHS CAUSED BY ICY HIGHWAYS

Freezing Rain and Snow Slows Traffic to Crawl and Disrupts Transportation Schedules in Many Sections of State During the Day

CAUTION IS ADVISED

Philadelphia, Jan. 16.—(P)—Rain and slushy snow that froze as it fell coated eastern Pennsylvania streets and highways with heavy ice today, causing uncounted accidents and many deaths, slowing traffic to a crawl, and disrupting transportation schedules.

Forecasters called for further freezing rain and snow late today and tonight.

Temperatures ranged a few degrees below freezing as rain and sleet began to fall about 3 a. m. It froze immediately.

In the northern counties an inch or more of snow quickly hid the treacherous ice coat.

All traffic was warned to proceed with caution. Buses coming into Philadelphia were as much as two hours late. Suburban trains ran behind schedule.

Pedestrians suffered painful falls, and at least one—at York—was killed in a fall from a porch.

RELIEF POPULATION LOWEST IN 8 YEARS

Harrisburg, Jan. 16.—(P)—Pennsylvania's relief population went into the current winter period at the lowest point in total numbers of the past eight years.

The State Department of Public Assistance said today there were 1,112,000 persons depending on some form of state assistance or WPA at the beginning of December.

This figure includes recipients of unemployment relief, old age assistance, aid for dependent children, blind pensions and federal work relief project wages. It is 25,000 less than the average for the month of September, 1940, and 170,000 less than the average for November, 1939.

BETTER GET BUSY!

Harrisburg, Jan. 16.—(P)—Pennsylvania's 3,000,000 motorists have only two weeks more to obtain their 1941 drivers licenses, the Department of Revenue warned today. The 1940 permits expire midnight January 31.

American Naval Reservists Awaiting Orders For An Attack on the Virus of Influenza

By RENNIE TAYLOR
Associated Press Science Writer
Berkeley, Calif., Jan. 16.—(P)—An American naval reserve unit headed by today awaiting mobilization orders for an attack on the virus of influenza.

Although the navy regularly participates in research work of many kinds, officers said this probably was the first time a naval unit ever had been called in for active service specifically for a job of that nature.

Twenty scientists make up the detail.

It will have the backing not only of the Navy Department but also of the Rockefeller Foundation for medical research and the University of California Medical School.

In Washington Secretary Knox disclosed the plan in reporting that the navy would cooperate with the Rockefeller organization and the university in the undertaking. Officers here said mobilization orders were expected momentarily.

Dr. A. P. Krueger, of the medical school, who heads the unit with the rank of commander, said the group would test the efficacy of the new influenza vaccine produced by the Rockefeller Foundation, using naval personnel for the operation. University facilities were made available for the work.

Hull Warns House Committee of German Peril to U.S.

Members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee were intent listeners as Secretary of State Cordell Hull, at left, warned that "Germany could easily cross the Atlantic" if Britain falls, and urged swift enactment of the aid-to-Britain bill. Hearing Hull's 3500-word statement were, left to right on bench: Representatives Wasieleski, Gregory, Courtney, Burgin, Arnold, and Jarman.

WITHERING FIRE IS DIRECTED ON CITY OF TOBRUK

BY EDWARD KENNEDY
With British Forces in Libya.
Jan. 16.—(P)—British soldiers, breathing sand-free air for the first time in a week, are redoubling their efforts in preparation for the assault on the beleaguered Italian stronghold of Tobruk.

The ring of guns surrounding the town has been firing steadily despite seven days of heavy sandstorms but the withering fire such as smashed into Bardia just before it fell has not begun and soldiers welcomed the respite from the swirling sand to hasten the movement of equipment for the new attack.

Guns from the Italian fortifications around the fort are replying, sometimes with a show of energy, but usually weakly.

The Fascists have at least one big naval gun planted ashore at Bardia. The British troops have named it "Tobruk Tom" and are trying hard to silence it.

Italian aircraft seems to be going berserk but little help has been given. The Italians have abandoned every air field this side of the Adkhar mountains with the exception of Derna—and the main resistance is expected to come, as it did at Bardia, from artillery.

British planes have disabled Italian aircraft.

State Mobilizes to Send 15,000 Additional Men to Colors During the Next Sixty Days

State Draft Board, Acting On Orders From Governor James, Works on a Breakdown of the New Quotas Assigned

4,911 IN LATEST CALL

Harrisburg, Jan. 16.—(P)—Pennsylvania mobilized on two fronts today to send approximately 15,000 additional men to the colors in the next 60 days for a year's active military duty.

Closely following a call for between 9,000 and 10,000 National Guardsmen to report February 17, were orders yesterday for 4,911 Pennsylvania men registered for selective service to be inducted between February 5 and March 7, and for high-ranking Pennsylvania Guard officers to report February 3.

The guardsmen comprise the 25th Division, 104th Cavalry, and the 103d Observation Squadron—the last of the Pennsylvania units to be called.

The state draft board, acting on orders from Governor Arthur H. James, worked today on a breakdown of the new quota—4,469 whites and 422 negroes—so immediate instructions could be issued to Wilkes-Barre, Harrisburg, Altoona and Pittsburgh.

Major General Edward Martin, commander of the 28th Guard Division, was called.

Boy Hurt When Gun Is Discharged in School

Fairview, N. J., Jan. 16.—(P)—Peter Spambaldi, 11, was critically wounded today when a .38-calibre revolver which Police Chief Anthony Magrino said the youth was carrying accidentally discharged in the fourth-grade classroom at Lincoln school.

The accident happened at the start of the session. There were 30 children in the room. The boy was taken to Englewood hospital and given a transfusion. The bullet entered his right side.

Magrino said the boy's parents told him they had taken a number of toy weapons from the boy and that he had borrowed the 20-year-old revolver from his grandfather this morning.

TWO SLAYINGS NOW CONCEDED PERFECT CRIMES

BY TOM REEDY
Harrisburg, Jan. 16.—(P)—Commissioner Lynn G. Adams of the Pennsylvania State Police, said today he is about ready to concede his investigators are confronted by "two perfect crimes"—the slayings of Margaret Martin, near Wilkes-Barre, and Rachel Taylor, State College, Pa.

"Somewhere in our investigations of both these cases, we slipped up on an alibi," the commissioner said.

The 19-year-old Martin girl's nude body, trussed in a burlap sack, was found December 17, 1938, in a lonely gulley in Wyoming county. 20 miles from her Kingston home. Long slashes disclosed an apparent attempt to dismember her body. She had not been seen alive from the time she left home to keep an appointment made by telephone for a job.

Republican State Chairman Outlines Policy of Party and Defends James Administration

FLYING COLONEL ISSUES DENIAL

Harrisburg, Jan. 16.—(P)—Charles F. Torrance, Republican state chairman, said in a statement today the policy of the party in Pennsylvania "has been compatible with the popular conception of practical administration" and that "we shall not be swayed from our course."

"To make progress, the general party policy must have direction," Torrance said. "If the policy is sound majority opinion will retain that direction. Such is the position of the Republican party of Pennsylvania."

Torrance's statement of party policy followed demands from two sources for reorganization of the state leadership, because of the recent loss, November 6, Pittsburgh "Herald" conference and a letter Mr. Clyde Harer, Lycoming county treasurer, sent to fellow members of the Republican state committee urging a change in party tactics and leadership.

The Pittsburgh conference, led by Allegheny County Chairman Frank J. Harris, who has been at the helm since 1934, was the first of its kind since the party's defeat in 1932.

Yonkers, N. Y., Jan. 16.—(P)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh said today that while he had "attempted to cooperate with all American organizations opposed to our entering the war in Europe," he had no connection with No Foreign War Committee.

His statement, telegraphed to the Associated Press from Huntington, Long Island, follows:

"I wish to state that while I have attempted to cooperate with all American organizations opposed to our entering the war in Europe, I have no connection with the No Foreign War Committee. Shortly after the No Foreign War Campaign was launched in Washington, I agreed to speak at the opening meeting in St. Louis providing certain conditions were met. These conditions were not met, and since that time the No Foreign War Campaign has undergone reorganization."

Verne Marshall, chairman of the No Foreign War Committee which was formed Dec. 17, was not immediately available for comment.

Marshall said Tuesday that it was Colonel Lindbergh who persuaded him to accept the chairmanship.

JAMES CONFERS ON MENTAL HOSPITALS

Harrisburg, Jan. 16.—(P)—Governor James, recovered from a cold, returned to his desk today and arranged to confer with a delegation of county commissioners concerning the future of a dozen county-owned mental hospitals the commonwealth has been authorized to take over.

The authority was given by act of the 1938 legislature, recently upheld by the state supreme court.

E. Arthur Sweeney, secretary of welfare, said it was the governor's purpose to learn the views of the county commissioners in their counties as to what should be done about the hospitals.

Administration Leader in Cabinet Declares It "Is Imperative That American Industry Work at Top Speed to Furnish Weapons to Great Britain In Order That She May Meet the Crisis Which is Confronting Her This Spring and Summer, and Thus Preserve Her Fleet as Bulwark in Atlantic"

URGES SIMPLIFICATION OF STEPS IN MUNITIONS PRODUCTION WITH FLEXIBLE MEANS OF ACTION

Washington, Jan. 16.—(P)—Secretary Stimson declared today that "I think we are in very great danger of an invasion by air in the contingency that the British navy should be destroyed or surrendered."

The War Department chief made this statement to the house foreign affairs committee in response to an inquiry by Representative Fish (R-N.Y.).

Stimson previously had endorsed President Roosevelt's bill for lend-lease aid to Britain.

Fish started the questioning by asking whether the secretary thought that, with this country's naval strength, any foreign nation could invade our shores.

"Not now, probably not," Stimson replied slowly.

"Any time this year?" Fish pressed.

"I wouldn't dare say any time this year," Stimson said.

Fish then raised the question whether the United States army could repel a force of 50,000 troops should they be landed.

"I think they probably could, if the gentleman means a land invasion," Stimson responded, adding that he thought that airforces would accompany an attempted invasion by infantry.

"Is there any airplane built which could span the Atlantic, drop bombs here and return across the Atlantic?" Fish inquired.

"Probably not the width of the Atlantic," Stimson said. "But they are rapidly developing in that direction and there are many bases short of the full width of the Atlantic."

Asked by Fish what bases he had in mind, Stimson said:

"Newfoundland would be a base within easy range of all of our New England coast. North Carolina would be within easy range of the New England coast."

"Does the secretary believe," Fish continued, "that our navy would remain locked up in our harbors if any such invasion were attempted?"

"No," said Stimson. "But where is our navy now? (Most of the big ships of the navy are presently based in the Pacific.)

Fish then inquired whether there was "fear of invasion," and the secretary replied that there was danger of an air invasion if the British fleet were destroyed or otherwise rendered ineffective for this country's protection.

Stimson took the stand today after Treasury Secretary Morgenthau declared yesterday that England's war orders have virtually been halted by a lack of ready cash.

Meanwhile, it was learned that Joseph P. Kennedy, retiring ambassador to London, would testify before the House committee next Tuesday. Kennedy was an early morning visitor at both the White House and the War Department.

Stimson said that the bill would permit the transfer to other countries of materials produced in government arsenals. Many laws permitting the disposition of government-owned war materials already are in existence, he said, but have never been codified so as "to form a reasonable or workable program of action."

INFANT IN CARRIAGE IS SHOT BY FATHER

Philadelphia, Jan. 16.—(P)—A 16-months-old girl, shot while she lay in her carriage on a crowded street, was given only a slight chance for recovery today and police charged her father with aggravated assault and battery with firearms.

Charles Braun, 32, accompanied by his attorney, surrendered last night about five hours after his infant daughter, Joan, had been critically wounded.

Sergeant Joseph Kest said the shooting occurred shortly after Braun met his estranged wife, who was pushing her child in the carriage.

There apparently was no violent argument, Kest related, but when Braun started to leave, he suddenly produced a gun and started firing. Four shots went wild, the fifth struck Joan.

Confidential Figures Indicate Britain's War Bill For Year To Be $3,019,000,000

Washington, Jan. 16.—(P)—Great Britain anticipates expenditures in 1941 that will require $3,019,000,000 in dollar exchange. She estimates that her receipts in dollar exchange during the year will be only $1,550,000,000.

That means a deficit of $1,469,000,000.

To meet it she had a reserve of $1,775,000,000 on hand on Jan. 1. When commitments are met, however, only $311,000,000 will be left and that represents all the dollar exchange available for any further war supply orders she may place in the United States.

These hitherto confidential figures were furnished the House foreign affairs committee yesterday by Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, with Great Britain's consent.

Morgenthau told committee members who expressed astonishment at the smallness of British holdings readily convertible into dollars that they confused these assets with much larger British investments elsewhere which could be converted only into sterling.

SECOND REFERENDUM
The second referendum in which dairy farmers in the New York milkshed may vote on proposed amendments to the federal milk marketing order is scheduled for January 21 in 411 polling places in six states. Whether the vote may be held, however, hinges on a decision expected Thursday by Associate Justice Jennings Bailey in Washington district court on a temporary injunction restraining the balloting as ordered by Agriculture Secretary Claude R. Wickard, according to the Associated Press. Among the polling places listed in the dispatch is the W. H. Evans store at Bear Lake, Warren county.

COLLEGE HEAD NAMED
Harrisburg, Jan. 16.—(P.)—Harvey A. Andrus, former dean of instruction, has been appointed president of Bloomsburg State Teachers College to succeed Dr. Francis B. Men's Class of 1st Methodist Church to Conduct Hobo Party

According to a notice received from C. A. Bahcock, president of the Men's Bible Class of the First Methodist church, the members are going to be very undignified at the regular social session of the group next Tuesday evening in the church rooms.

"The fellows must come dressed as hoboes," he says, "and the hoboier they are, the better! The biggest bum will receive a cash prize, in addition to which the biggest dude in the group must give him his necktie as an additional prize."

It is explained that every one must call the others by their first names or be fined for calling them "Mister."

A notice which went to all members of the class asks that each bring the horrible necktie that "Aunt Minnie" gave him for Christmas and swap it, sight unseen, for another in the hope that the new one will be a bit better.

The entertainment committee for the occasion will be the president, Earl Flohr, and H. W. Correll. Refreshments will be under the supervision of C. E. Miller, Charles Eaton, and Anthony Larsen, who announce that the menu will consist of stumgullion, coffee and pie.

Dinner will be served at seven o'clock, but the committee asks that the hoboes come at 6:30 o'clock for inspection and a song session for which special selections have been made including some "jungle" favorites.

PHILO C. DIX

DOUGALE YOUNG

The resignation of Philo C. Dix, state secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association in Pennsylvania for the last 14 years, was announced today as the committee gathered in Harrisburg for its annual meeting.

Mr. Dix is well known in Warren, having visited here on many occasions.

His resignation is effective February 1 when he will become chairman of the association's business committee.

The state then will be divided into two administrative areas, each having separate secretaries. Dougale E. Young of Rochester, N. Y., will become western Pennsylvania secretary with headquarters at Pittsburgh. W. Haines Kent, present central eastern district secretary, will take over the eastern district with headquarters at Harrisburg.

In the rearrangement, Charles E. Ford, state boys' work secretary, will give up administrative work in the south mountain district to devote his time to the south central district and boys work service for local Y. M. C. A.'s.

The committee also said that Elmer Wiseman, Meadville, north-west district secretary, had accepted appointment as state secretary of the Kentucky Y. M. C. A.

At the annual election of committee officers, these men were unopposed for reelection: W. H. Ridgway, Coatesville, president; John Fox Weiss, Harrisburg, vice president; Frank P. Miller, Meadville, second vice president; Roy Stetler, Harrisburg, recording secretary; and Herbert L. Smith, Harrisburg, treasurer.

SKI WEATHER

Ski tow will be in operation tonight from eight o'clock on.

PHALANX MEETING

The Phalanx Fraternity will hold an important meeting at the Y. M. C. A. on Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock. R. W. Reynolds will be the speaker. All members are urged to attend.

COMING HOME

Robert Kopf, who has been a patient in the Hanot Hospital in Erie following an operation on his knee last Saturday, is being brought to his home on Market street tomorrow.

TO RECITE ROSARY

Members of the St. Joseph Society will meet in their clubrooms at eight o'clock this evening to go to the home of Matthew Wozniak, Beech street, for the recitation of the Rosary.

WHAT TO DO WITH FLU

Rest in bed and good nursing care are the two most important things in the medical treatment of epidemic influenza, the Journal of the American Medical Association is quoted as declaring in an Associated Press dispatch today.

HAS APPENDICITOMY

Bob Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Wilson, of Morrison street, submitted to an emergency appendicitis operation Tuesday afternoon in the Warren General Hospital. His many friends will be pleased to know that he is reported getting along nicely.

REPORT MEETING

Reports of the treasurer, Holgar Elmquist, and all committee heads were presented at last night's meeting of the Warren Chapter, Bundles for Britain, held at the Y. W. C. A. activities building. Wholehearted cooperation of leaders and workers and mounting accomplishments were shown in these very interesting reports.

COMPLETES COURSE

Word has been received here that William F. Kinander, seaman second class, U. S. Navy, son of E. W. Kinander, 413 Water street, was selected for and completed the course of instruction in the Class "A" group 1 (b) Ordnance School. He graduated with honor and stood highest in his class, according to the information received.

TO SHOW PICTURES

Masons of Warren are anticipating a real treat in conjunction with a sauer kraut dinner to be held in the Masonic Temple next Wednesday evening, January 22. At that time Judge Robert R. Lewis, of Coudersport, will show colored slides and tell of his trip through Yellowstone National Park, Zion, Bryce and the Grand Canyons, and on to the west coast.

FIRST AID CLASS

Announcement was made today that a class in first aid will be conducted here by the local Red Cross chapter and the Y. M. C. A. This course is the American Red Cross standard first aid and accident prevention course and is open to men and women, 17 years of age or over, who have reached the junior year in high school. Classes will be held at the Y. M. C. A. each Wednesday and Friday from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m., starting January 22. Those wishing to take the course should leave their names at the Y. M. C. A., it was stated.

ILLEGAL DOGS

Seaton, Jan. 15. (U. P.)—Fred Kehrl, Jr., state dog inspector, says whether owners know it or not, there are 21,000 "illegal" dogs in Luzerne county. He said 23,000 dogs were licensed here last year. But so far only 2,600 owners have appeared for new tags.

ANNUAL WINTER SHOW OF LOCAL GROUP PLANNED

Members of the Warren County Poultry Association announced today that plans are progressing rapidly for their annual winter show, to be held from January 20 to 25 in the Greenlund Furniture building.

The rooms will be the scene of much activity, as poultry raisers and dog fanciers of the section put their prize stock on exhibition.

As in previous years, Friday and Saturday of the show week will feature an exposition of fine dogs. The association today urged that all dog owners enter their pets in this competition. All breeders of fancy and utility poultry and water fowl are especially asked to bring in displays.

Workwhile prizes are available for winners in all classes of dogs and poultry. Beautiful ribbons also are awarded all entries which place in the show.

Premium lists have been mailed to former exhibitors and other interested persons may obtain copies from S. A. Hanson, 22 Madison avenue, or C. T. Hanson, 700 Pennsylvania avenue, east.

SALVATION ARMY OFFICERS HERE ENJOY MEETING

Major and Mrs. B. E. Flinn and Lieutenant Robert Schrader, of the local Salvation Army corps, have returned from Pittsburgh, where they attended officers' councils on Tuesday.

Five sessions of the council were conducted by Commissioner Alexander Damon and Major W. G. Harris. Commissioner Damon is territorial commander and Major Harris is divisional commander. Matters of much importance were discussed, including Salvation Army military operations in co-operation with government conscription and camp service.

At least ten assisting officers were issued farewell orders in connection with the annual councils, including Warren corps assisting officer, Lieutenant Schrader. The lieutenant has been stationed in Warren for three months, during which time he has given splendid service. His change of appointment will mean advancement to him. However, his appointment will not be announced for several days.

TIMES TOPICS

INURED HERE

A. O. Lantz, Mt. Jewett funeral director, is in the Kane Summit Hospital with a fractured leg, reported to have been received in a fall here Tuesday night. X-rays taken at the Kane hospital showed the leg fractured below the knee.

HURT IN FALL

Mrs. Rena Armstrong, of North Warren, was admitted to the Warren General Hospital this morning for treatment of an injury to her right leg, sustained about 8:45 o'clock last evening in a fall near the Library Theatre. X-ray pictures were taken to determine whether the limb is fractured.

RESERVE OFFICERS

Warren County Chapter, Reserve Officers Association, will hold its regular meeting tonight in the American Legion Home. All officers are urged to be present. An important discussion will be held on officers' uniforms and equipment.

START TRAINING

A draft of thirty men was sent to the U. S. Navy Training Station at Newport, R. I., from Buffalo on January 13 and there are 16 men on the waiting list to be sent on Monday, January 20, of the weekly quota of 20 men for the month of January. Applications are being accepted daily from men between the ages of 17 and 31 years. As soon as all qualifications have been met and the necessary papers completed, the men will be enlisted and sent away, or if in excess of the quota will be held over in the furlough status. Men between the ages of 17 and 18 years are enlisted to serve until their 21st birthday as minors and discharged, after which they may re-enlist for four years. Those over 18 years must enlist for a six-year term.

2 TOP FLIGHT ATTRACTIONS AT THE COLUMBIA THEATRE TODAY, THURS., FRIDAY.

"Sky Murder"

Nick Carter, as personified by Walter Pidgeon, plunges anew into adventure, this time with abundant comedy amid the thrills in "Sky Murder," third of the Nick Carter series, coming Wednesday, Thursday and Friday to the Columbia theatre. Joyce Compton appears opposite Pidgeon in a role that mingles comedy with romance, and Donald Meek continues his comical role of Bartholomew, the eccentric bee expert. Karen Verne, Edward Ashley, Tom Conway, George Leacey, Dorothy Tree, Frank Reicher and Chill Willis are other players.

"Little Nellie Kelly"

Introducing Judy Garland in her first solo starring role and in her first "grown up" love affair, "Little Nellie Kelly," coming to the Columbia Theatre Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, is heralded as giving the popular young actress her fullest opportunity dramatically to date. Stepping temporarily out of "kid" roles, Miss Garland becomes a grown-up and adds new glory to her acting and singing fame. Teamed with her for historic honours are George Murphy and Charles Winninger, with an excellent supporting cast.

On May 15, 1918, the first permanent scheduled airmail service in the world was inaugurated between New York and Washington

A Washington Daybook

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The foreman of a huge airplane factory walks through the shop, tapping this man and that on the shoulder. "As part of the defense program," he says, "we're having a camouflage drill. Get up on the roof and play a round of golf."

Sounds silly, doesn't it? But take the world of a group of Pittsburgh steel firm officials here to discuss plant construction possibilities with the National Defense Commission, something like that can happen in a few months in Texas. Here's how:

Work already has started at Hensley field, near Dallas, according to J. Gordon Turnbull, steel company engineer, on a 20-acre, all-blackout, camouflaged plant for the North American Aviation Co. Construction plans call for a dummy golf course on the 20-acre roof. And what could make the camouflage so effective as having a couple of four-story, apparently dubbing around in case enemy scouting planes were out searching for possible objectives.

Without Windows

WALLS of the plant are to be of pre-fabricated, corrugated, splinter-proof steel. There will not be a window in the building. Exits and entrances will have double doors, the doors to be under no circumstances can light escape from the building. Inside the corrugations of the walls will run the tubing for air conditioning and wires for fluorescent lighting which will illuminate the interior night and day.

The plant is a second structure built along these lines by a Pittsburgh firm, the other being the Allison airplane engine plant at Indianapolis. The company also has a number of plants in Liverpool, England, where the structures have been tested under actual war conditions.

According to cables reports from London, one of the chief benefits to the building under bomb-fire is that when direct or oblique hit blow out the walls, damaged sections can be replaced almost instantly.

See Construction Record

THE Texas plant, officials say, will be completed in 105 days from the time work started, believed to be a record for construction of a factory of such size.

The Dallas plant is just another step in the use of pre-fabricated steel in the defense program. At Quantico, Va., the Marine Corps base, 100 enlisted men and their families soon will be occupying the first defense housing program homes built of pre-fabricated, welded steel panels.

The same construction is being used in 100 twelve-family apartment units for shipyard employees at Newport News, Va.

These houses are demountable under roofs of sheet steel panels and, except for outer sidewalls of asbestos shingles over insulation board sheathing, are completely of steel. In the case of the Quantico two-family units, ten men working eight hours can get one ready for occupancy in a single day. Each side of the 48-by-28-foot buildings contains a living room, combination kitchen and dinette, two bedrooms and a bath.

All Can Be Moved

ALL of these buildings are demountable and could be knocked down and transferred to other communities with little loss of time.

The Defense Commission has under consideration still a third pre-fabricated steel housing program, the designer of which claims he can house 700,000 persons in six months.

Kiwanis Officers Are Installed At Annual Meeting; Reports Presented

At the annual dinner-meeting of the Warren Kiwanis Club, held last evening at the Carver Hotel, Charles H. Lindberg, of North Warren, was installed as president of the local organization for the ensuing year. The installation was in charge of S. M. McClure, past lieutenant governor.

Other officers of the club, elected a month ago, were installed. In seating the new officers, Mr. McClure complimented the officers for their past work during the past year and paid special compliments to D. D. Cook, re-elected secretary, and W. L. McClure, who continues as treasurer. Other officers are H. D. Baker, first vice president, and Dr. Thomas E. Colley, second vice president.

Following his installation, Mr. Lindberg presented H. D. Harris, president for the past two years, with a past president's pin.

Reports of the various activities during the past year were presented. Special mention was made of the fine work by P. E. Nelson, chairman of the committee in charge of the Saturday evening Boys' Club, and Dr. J. R. Elliott, Christmas party chairman.

Further plans for the visit of International President Mark Smith to Warren were announced by Mr. Baker. He stated that the visit has been changed from February to April, although the exact date has not been fixed.

S. M. McClure, chairman of the Warren County Chapter, American Red Cross, reported that the 1940 Roll Call resulted in the sum of $3,914.26 being raised in the county. A complete report of the Red Cross Roll Call will appear tomorrow.

A meeting of directors and committee chairmen was held following the regular session.

The following committees were announced for 1941 by President Lindberg, the first named in each case being chairman:

WAS DRUMMER BOY

Edwin L. Ayers, who served as a drummer boy in the Civil War because an officer thought he was too small to carry a rifle, died today at the age of 93 in his home at Zulaski, Lawrence county, near New Castle. A former Lawrence county sheriff, Ayers was reputed to be the county's last surviving Civil War veteran.

SOCIETY MEETS

The Pennsylvania State Society of Washington held its first reception and grand ball of the year last night at the Shoreham Hotel in Washington and elected D. H. Deibler, of Lycoming county, president, according to an Associated Press dispatch. Other officers elected are: Senator Joseph F. Guffey, honorary president; Representative J. R. Kinzer, Harry L. Haines, Robert Rich and Francis R. Smith, vice presidents; Tom Davis, Northumberland county, vice president in charge of programs.

SECOND REFERENDUM

The second referendum in which dairy farmers in the New York milkshed may vote on proposed amendments to the federal milk marketing order is scheduled for January 21 in 411 polling places in six states. Whether the vote may be held, however, hinges on a decision expected Thursday by Associate Justice Jennings Bailey in Washington district court on a temporary injunction restraining the balloting as ordered by Agriculture Secretary Claude R. Wickard, according to the Associated Press. Among the polling places listed in the dispatch is the W. H. Evans store at Bear Lake, Warren county.

COLLEGE HEAD NAMED

Harrisburg, Jan. 15.—(T.)—Harvey A. Andrus, former dean of instruction, has been appointed president of Bloomsburg State Teachers College to succeed Dr. Francis B. Haas, now state superintendent of public instruction. Andrus has been acting head of the college since September, 1939. The announcement was made yesterday by Dr. Haas, with the approval of Governor James, following Andrus' election by the Bloomsburg trustees.

RESIGNS FROM SCHOOL BOARD AT SHEFFIELD

Sheffield, Jan. 15.—Mrs. Anna Mervine, member of the Sheffield township school board for more than 15 years and, so far as is known, the only woman ever to serve the community in the capacity of school director, terminated her lengthy term of service on Monday evening when, at the regular January meeting of the board, her resignation was read and accepted.

First elected a member of the school board in November, 1925, Mrs. Mervine, wife of Dr. R. B. Mervine, retired local physician, resigned because she no longer maintains continuous residence here, she and her husband residing a part of each year in Lock Haven.

Succeeding Mrs. Mervine as director is Theodore Kirch, production manager for the Pennsylvania Bottle Company, appointed last night by the board to serve until the general election in November. The meeting Monday night was held in the high school and was conducted by C. H. Whittaker, president.

Acting on a suggestion of Miss Alice Nelson, school nurse, the board voted to apply to the Surplus Food Commodities Corporation to receive, under the plan formulated by the corporation, foods to be distributed among the undernourished children of the schools. This program has already been instituted in schools of neighboring communities.

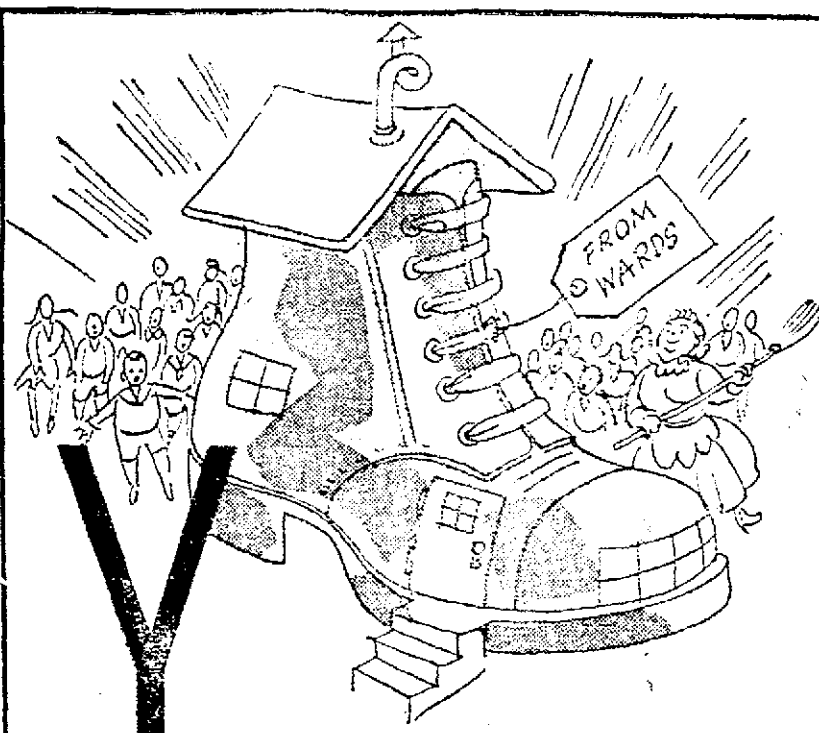

Arrangements were completed to have Miss Anna Loughry, home economics instructor, organize a night class in that subject for adult women of the community. The class will be instituted if and when a sufficient number of applicants for membership has been received. Prospective students should apply at the high school office or directly to Miss Loughry.

Announcement was made that the Pennsylvania State College, through its extension service, is offering to the public home study, correspondence courses at a nominal fee. Information on same can be obtained from the Central Extension office, the Pennsylvania State College, State College, Pa.

The directors voiced approval of and voted to help promote a plan whereby national defense training classes can be established here. Proposed by C. F. Henry Wuesthoff, of Warren, vocational supervisor, who is in charge of the defense training projects in the county, the plan was submitted to the board by L. O. Eisenhauer, high school principal.

Routine reports and items of business occupied the attention of the directors during the remainder of Monday's meeting.

PLAN ICE RINK

A group of business men and other interested citizens are investigating the possibilities of constructing a public ice skating pond in midtown. The owners of the lot formerly occupied by the recently demolished furniture factory buildings have preferred that site for the purpose, and if it can be adapted to flooding at not too great a cost it will be converted into the proposed rink.

NEW MEETING PLACE

The Rotary Club, transferring the scene of its weekly meetings from Cadeo hall to Bob's Restaurant, met for the first time in the new meeting place Tuesday noon. All but one member were present at the luncheon. Discussion of the forthcoming lecture course which the club is sponsoring and of a proposed community ice skating rink took the place of a formal program. President C. H. Whittaker appointed Glen Belknap, J. M. O'Connor and O. M. Borden as committee on the ice rink proposition.

DEFENSE CLASSES

Details of the plan submitted to the school board Monday regarding the establishment of vocational training courses here as a part of the national defense program are announced as follows by L. O. Eisenhauer, high school principal: The training is open to all young men between 17 and 25 years of age, inclusive, who are not attending school, and the following four courses are offered: 1—Tractor and automobile mechanics; 2—metal work, including soldering and machine repair; 3—woodwork; 4—electricity, including instruction in the operation, care and repair of equipment. Each is an eight-week course of 15 hours per week. If classes are organized here they probably will meet evenings, between 6 and 10.

A minimum of 10 students is required for the formation of a class and each class will be limited to an enrollment of 20. Whether classes will be started here depends on whether a sufficient number of applicants reply to questionnaires being mailed by Mr. Eisenhauer, and whether instructors and a suitable meeting place can be obtained. The courses of study cannot be instituted until all of the foregoing requirements have been satisfactorily met, as required by the defense training program authorities.

Men's Class of 1st Methodist Church to Conduct Hobo Party

According to a notice received from C. A. Babcock, president of the Men's Bible Class of the First Methodist church, the members are going to be very undignified at the regular social session of the group next Tuesday evening in the church room.

"The fellows must come dressed as hoboes," he says, "and the hoboier they are, the better! The biggest hum will receive a cash prize, in addition to which the biggest dude in the group must give him his necktie as an additional prize."

It is explained that every one must call the others by their first names or be fined for calling them "Alister."

A notice which went to all members of the class asks that each bring the horrible necktie that "Aunt Minnie" gave him for Christmas and swap it, sight unseen, for another in the hope that the new one will be a bit better.

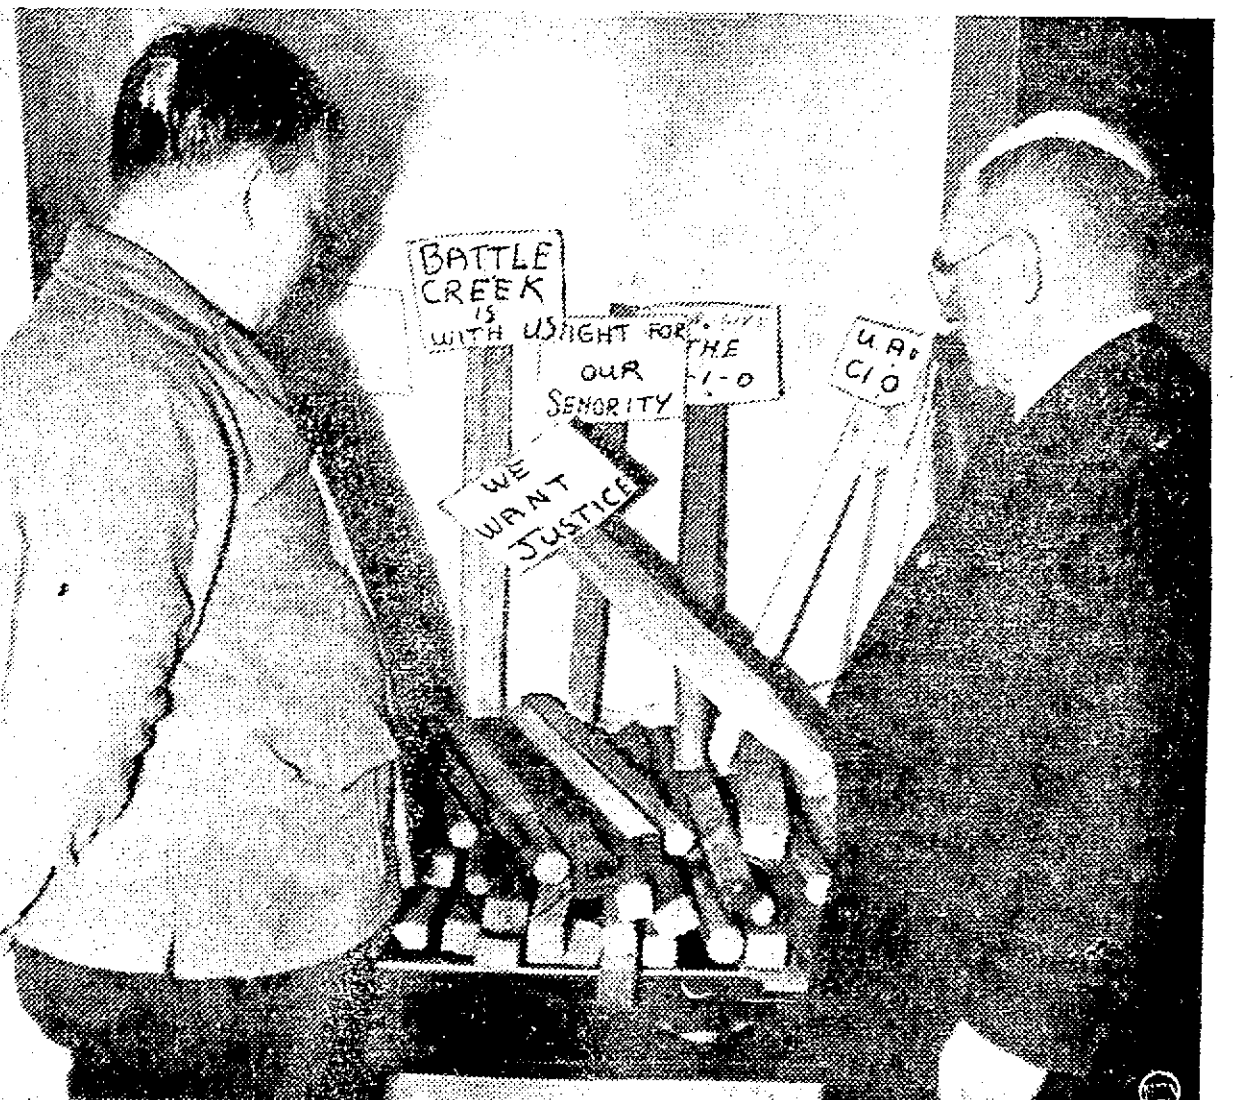

The entertainment committee for the occasion will be the president, Earl Flohr, and H. W. Correll. Refreshments will be under the supervision of C. E. Miller, Charles Eaton, and Anthony Larsen, who announce that the menu will consist of stungullion, coffee and pie.

Dinner will be served at seven o'clock, but the committee asks that the hoboes come at 6:30 for inspection and a song session for which special selections have been made, including some "jungle" favorites.

YEAR'S LABOR LOST

Police Count Clubs Seized in Saginaw Strike Riot

Police Chief Fred Genske of Saginaw, Mich., right, and Policeman H. Shrock, took over the pile of clubs and signs taken from C. W. C. L. O. pickets during violence at Eaton Manufacturing Co. strike, which has spread to other plants in Michigan and Ohio. Note bandages on policemen's heads, and leg wounds allegedly received at Eaton strike rioting.

DISTINCT COMMUNITY SERVICE

The Warren Rotary Club is undertaking a distinct project of community service in its Institute of Understanding which begins here next week on Thursday evening and continues for three succeeding Thursdays.

The aim of the project is exactly what its name implies—understanding of current problems locally, nationally and internationally.

In a period when citizens are confused by conflicting reports, opinions and foreign censors the Institute offers local citizens an opportunity to learn plain facts and arrest the confusion.

The speakers are outstanding experts employed by Rotary International for the period of the institutes being held over the country. Were this not the case the programs would be beyond the reach of many.

In the world's unrest of today, accompanied by complicated international situations, with war actually taking place all over Europe and the Far East, the Rotary Club is performing a timely service.

Every citizen should become interested and lend support to the success of this undertaking in order that there may be developed further an understanding of the manifold problems facing us in the immediate future.

NOT A BAD IDEA

A plan to reward careful automobile drivers with an "A-1" rating has been suggested at Harrisburg.

The bill of Senator Charles P. Bartlett, of Northampton, already presented to the 1941 legislature, would set up three other classifications of drivers depending on the number of violations recorded over a twelve-month period.

"There are 48 states where motorists who violate traffic rules are punished, but there isn't one state where a motorist is rewarded because he hasn't violated the rules," the senator says. "So why shouldn't Pennsylvania be the first state to reward the careful driver?"

Bartlett's bill would give all motorists who have not been arrested for motor code violation in the previous twelve months a card rating him as a class "A" driver. Motorists who had one violation during the previous year would be listed in class "B" and would receive an operator's card with the upper left corner cut off. Those who had been arrested twice would be class "C" probationary, and receive a card with both top corners cut off. Class "C" would be the lowest.

Senator Bartlett says the system should decrease accidents because "anyone with an 'A' rating would protect the honor while anyone in 'B' or 'C' probationary class would be careful not to fall into a lower class."

Although the measure seems to have some merit, it is interesting to note that a similar bill died in committee in the 1935 session.

A wide circle of friends throughout the section mourn the passing of genial Billy Munn, of Garland, who died at the Warren General Hospital Tuesday morning. Billy's greatest bids for prominence were as an entertainer and promoter of old-time fiddlers' contests, in both of which endeavors he excelled. Many will miss his unfailing good humor, his ready wit and friendly greeting. There never will be too many Billy Munns in the world, people who smile their way through, who know how to be kind and friendly and radiate cheer and happiness.

With the induction of new officers, assignment of committees and other annual business out of the way the Warren Kiwanis Club is launched upon another twelve months of service to the community and weekly get-togethers for the half hundred members.

Plans are afoot to provide fitting farewells for Selective Service Men and Guardsmen leaving Warren in the future.

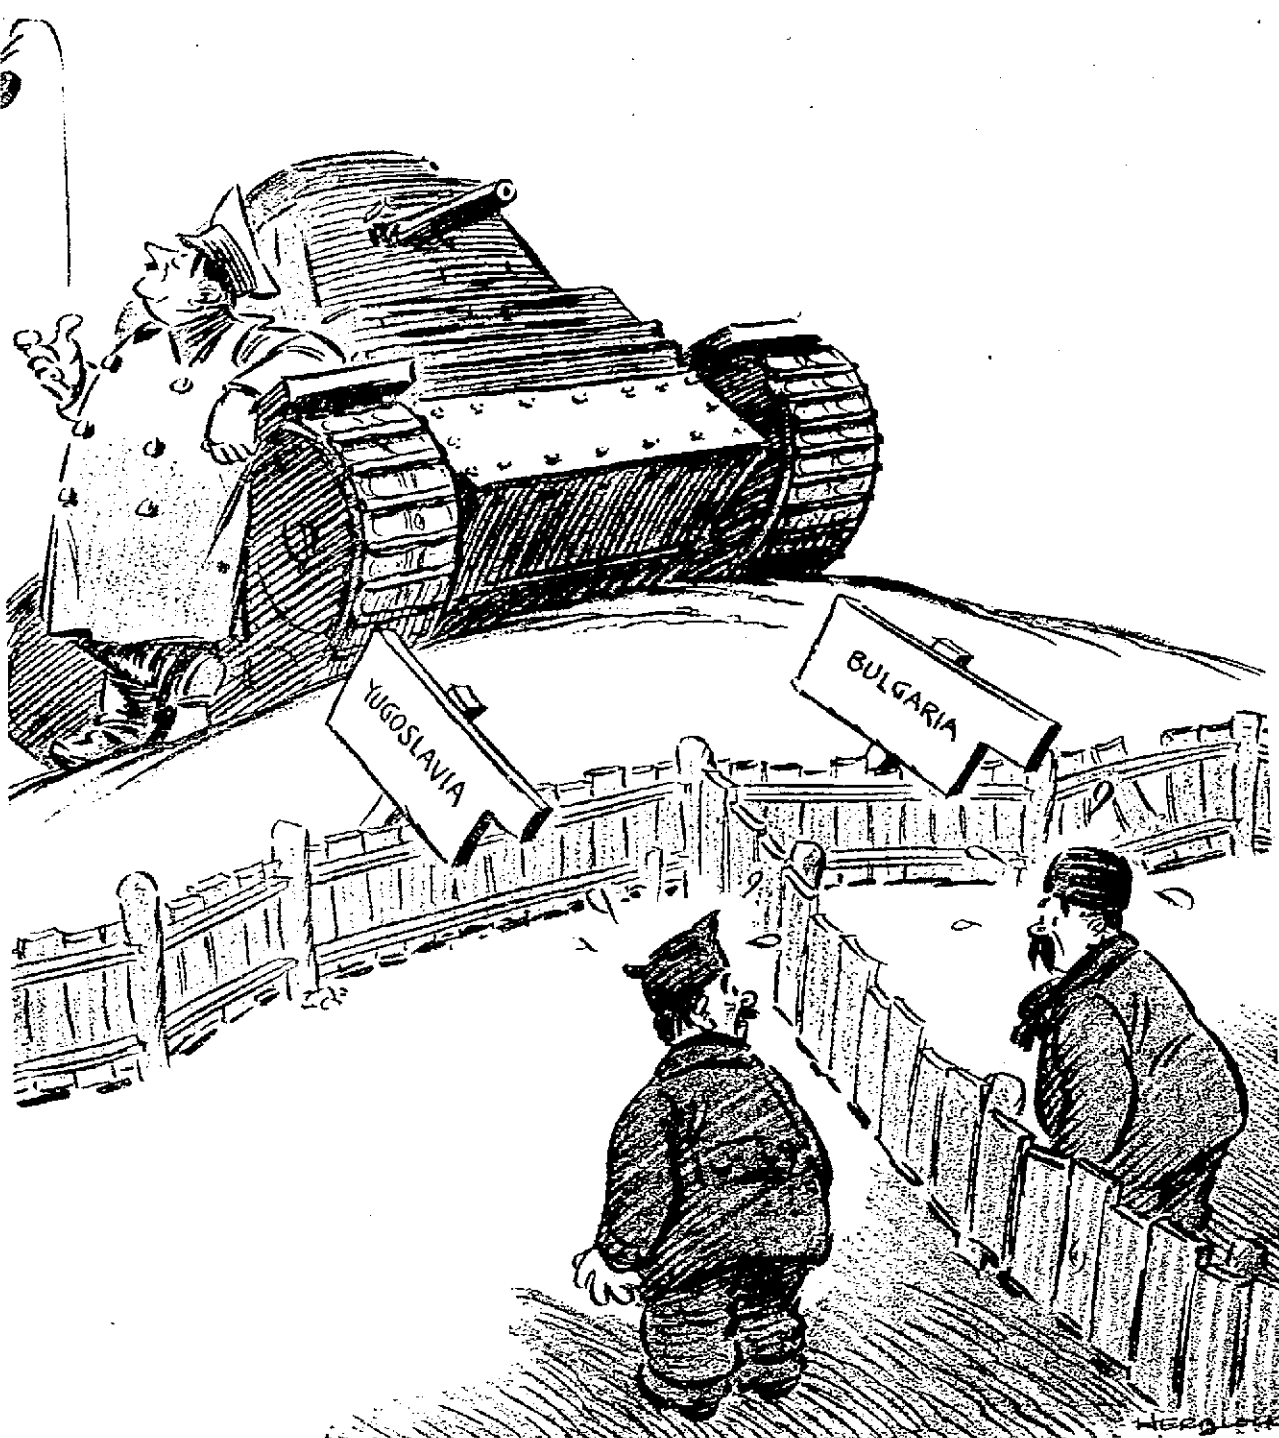

January's on the last lap and still the river has not been frozen over at this point.

YOUR NATION'S CAPITOL

The Times-Mirror Washington Correspondent

MORE PROPOSALS LIKE REUTHER PLAN ARISE ON THE WAY

Washington, Jan. 16.—That Eaton plant strike at Saginaw, Mich., packing a lot more of the dynamite of significance than any local disturbance should, has exploded down in Washington. First it has put Congress in a frame of mind to apply stern repressive measures to labor in defense industries. Second, it may wreck a big organized labor plan to seek "partnership" status with capital in management of the national preparedness program.

The now famous Reuther report on using idle auto factory facilities to make airplanes was but the first step in this program by which labor leaders hope to establish labor's right to sit in as a partner in handling of national defense.

Soon to be announced is the second plan, a report now being perfected by officers of the C. I. O. Steel Workers Organizing Committee giving labor's ideas on how steel production can be increased.

This report is understood to find that approximately one-third of the nation's total steel capacity is either not being used at all or is being used far less effectively than it might be. It sets forth along the lines of the Berlin report to suggest ways in which existing facilities could be made to yield much higher production.

In opposition to this labor plan, of course, manufacturers say many of these idle facilities for steel production are not rated by management as obsolete and unprofitable.

able to operate, as they are "hand" operated in competition with "automatic" machine operated mills now in general use.

Third proposal in the labor plan will come from the A. F. of L. machinists, who are co-operating in a study by the American Association of Railroaders of unusual railway machine shops. This is not on all fours with the other two studies, since it is primarily a management job. Labor, however, is playing an important part.

These developments—and there will be more like them before the winter is over—are very much in line with Defense Commissioner Sydney Hillman's conviction that labor has an equal responsibility with capital and management for proper functioning of the defense program. He is fond of pointing to the situation in Great Britain, where the labor representatives in the Churchill cabinet have brought labor's vote more and more to the front.

Hillman, himself an expert on management, believes labor is simply fitted to share in the solution of all production problems. A sample of the sort of duty-sharing he has in mind is furnished by the Shipbuilding Stabilization Committee—a body set up under the Defense Commission to smooth out employment kinks in the shipbuilding industry. Once this committee labor and capital together are sitting in with the Maritime Commission and the navy.

Meanwhile, the Reuther plan itself has been getting much more serious attention from top Defense Commissioners than early reports indicated. An "inspired" story saying that the commission was sorry but that the scheme just didn't hold water was a just-below-top-rank member of the commission. But when reporters inquired around they couldn't find anyone who would father the story. Meanwhile, Knudsen's experts went to work to make a thorough analysis of the plan, and a little later it was announced that Knudsen would go over the whole thing with Reuther and with Phil Murray, C. I. O. head, in a personal conference.

STORIES IN STAMPS

Portuguese Guinea May Be Atlantic Air Base

STAMP collectors may soon be paying particular attention to Portuguese Guinea. This tiny West African colony has been tentatively selected as eastern terminal of a new South Atlantic air route. It is closer to South America than the former base, now a trouble center in French colonial strife.

Portugal's possession of Guinea dates from the nation's 14th century era of maritime greatness, commemorated by the Vasco da Gama stamp above. Portuguese sailors inaugurated the age of discovery and exploration.

Da Gama found the route to India, which lured Columbus westward, by rounding the Cape of Good Hope. He reached Calicut in 1498, had to battle his way out of the harbor when natives became hostile.

Later, Portugal established a trading post in Calicut but the Portuguese were murdered. Da Gama led a squadron of 20 ships to avenge them, bombarded Calicut, returned with rich prizes. In 1523 he returned to India as viceroy, died in Cochim soon after his arrival.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—For some uncountable reason our present day dramatists seem to have better luck when they create their own characters than when they dramatize the lives of great men. Of a score of plays dealing with the challenging characters of history in the last seven or eight years, only a few—maybe three or four—have been successful. Off hand I can think of only three—"Victoria Regina," "The Barrets of Wimpole Street," and "Abbe Lincoln in Illinois," with maybe "Valley Forge" thrown in. But outside of these there remain a long and dreary list who have died tragic deaths in the playwright's script, although they achieved much in history.

Poe, Wagner, Byron, Napoleon, Marie Antoinette, Disraeli, Andrew Jackson, and now Charles Dickens have been brought to the stage in dramas that were doomed to abrupt failures.

THE newest of these was "Romantic Mr. Dickens" which bowed in a few weeks ago, and bowed out almost immediately. Why this situation should exist I am unable to explain. As a man there was surely plenty of meat on Dickens' bones. Almost single-handedly he killed the debtor's prison in England. His novels are classics and have been translated into all civilized languages. He lived an interesting, if at times off-color life and should have been good copy for a dramatist. Perhaps the fault was the author's, and not the subject's. But somehow I doubt this. There have been too many wasted efforts by dramatists of proved mettle to explain this away as purely bad writing.

It may be that when a man builds a play around the bones of an immortal, he subconsciously becomes more concerned with history than with building convincing situations for his characters. Take Byron for instance. There is a chapter in his life that touches a forbidden subject. Many and dark are the legends that circulate around his memory. If you explored these charges in a drama you would not necessarily risk a lawsuit, but you would most certainly be assailed by the champions and the admirers of the poet.

ONCE asked the late William Howard, who was tragically killed by a tractor on his farm a couple of summers ago, about this, he replied:

"You encounter mental barriers when you write about characters from history. When you make up your characters you can do with them as you please, and you have no inhibitions, because then you are responsible to no one but yourself."

Maybe this is it. Certainly it is true that the heroes of history have been a sorry lot, as shown to us by the playwrights. Almost without exception they have been dull and unbelievable individuals who have transported themselves in dreary dramas that should never have been written.

All Y.W. Branches Will Participate In Annual Banquet

The annual membership banquet of the Y. W. C. A., which will be held next Monday evening at six o'clock in the activities building, promises to be a real YW-family get-together, as the general committee is made up of members from the various clubs, assuring general representation.

Mrs. Harold C. Warren and Mrs. Grover Lund are members of the board of directors in charge, and are being assisted by Miss Effie Peterson of the All-We-Je Club; Miss Josephine Collins of the Y-Deb Club, also representatives of the Twenty-One Club, Girl Reserve Mothers Club, the High School Girls Club and the grade school Girl Reserves.

Special dinner music will be played by Miss Patty Smith, of the High School Girls' Club. Mrs. Carl Lundahl, president of the Y. W. C. A., will preside and short talks will be given by all the club presidents. Other business will include election of six directors.

Rev. J. A. Davidson, pastor of the First Baptist church, will speak on "Faith Fellowship and Freedom," which is in keeping with the major program emphasis of the Y. W. C. A., "Building a World Community."

All members of the association are most cordially invited to attend this annual rally and are reminded that they may bring their friends. Tables will be reserved for the different clubs and all reservations must be received by Saturday evening. These may be made by calling 150 or 1636.

Players' News

Interest in the Warren Players' Club playwriting competition has been increasing with each season and it is anticipated that there will be a number participating in this year's event, which is already under way and closes on March 1.

The competition is open to any member of the club and no names are included with submitted manuscripts, these to be contained in a separate envelope attached to the script. It has been the custom in past years to produce the winners for a spring studio meeting, an added incentive to the playwrights.

The Jamestown Little Theatre is presenting an English mystery, "Night Must Fall," opening Friday night in the Scottish Rite Consistory in that city and continuing for eight performances.

Over at Franklin, the Playhouse group will present "Kind Lady" early in February as the Franklin Hospital Auxiliary.

It will interest local players to know that among those playing at the Pinegrove Playhouse at Cambridge Springs the past season are several now making stage history.

Clifton Webb is reported playing the lead in "The Man Who Came to Dinner," showing at Elmer on January 23. Taylor Holmes plays the leading male role in Allison Skipworth's "Next Step to Heaven" in New York.

Miss Betty Field and Stanley Davis well known dancing team, were among those who went to Olean, N. Y., Wednesday evening to hear Cornelia Otis Skinner in "Wives of Henry VIII," sponsored by the Olean Theatre Guild.

MARTHA SOCIETY
The Martha Society of St. Paul's Lutheran church will meet in the church parlors tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, entertained by Mrs. Augusta Anderson and Mrs. John Johnson. Everyone is welcome.

GOULDTOWN NEWS
Mr. and Mrs. George Olson, of Jamestown, N. Y., called on the Warren family last Sunday. Miss Violet Erikson, of Warren, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Erikson. The Misses Vera and Violet Swanson of Frewsburg and Jamestown were home for the weekend. Miss Catherine Nicholson was home from Warren Sunday.

SMITH CORNERS CLUB
Miss Thelma Ploss entertained members of the Smith Corners Social Club for their regular meeting. In the afternoon Mrs. Thelma Prendergast, home economics supervisor in the county, gave a talk on "moth proofing" and on fancy work.

At the next meeting, each member who wishes to make a purse will bring one-half yard of duck toweling and one skein of any desired color of yarn. That meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Elmo Hartness on January 22. All members are urged to be present as Mrs. Prendergast will again be a guest.

In the late afternoon a delicious luncheon was served and Nettie Hoag was presented many beautiful handkerchiefs and a cake in honor of her birthday. In attendance were ten members and two guests, Mrs. Ruth Sorenson and Mrs.

Coming on January 20

Pictured above are Paul Theodore and Edith Ward as Ben, the Gardner, and Mary Lennox, important characters in the Clare Tree Major play, "The Secret Garden," to be presented here next Monday.

Mrs. Guy McCloskey, president of the Community P. T. A. Council, reports that there are a few seats remaining for the Clare Tree Major productions this season. Anyone wishing to purchase tickets for the January 20 and April 7 performances may do so at a special reduced rate, she states.

The play to be given here next Monday afternoon at four o'clock in the high school auditorium is Frances Hodgson Burnett's famous classic, "The Secret Garden." The spring selection is the much-loved "Alice in Wonderland."

When Mrs. Major dramatized and directed "The Secret Garden," she did not find it necessary to do a great deal of research in order to create the proper atmosphere for the play.

The scenes of this play are laid in and around a great mansion house in the colorful Yorkshire section of England. Mrs. Major was born in Caversham in Oxfordshire and has visited Yorkshire many times. She knows well its people, its moors and its moorland houses. This knowledge proved most helpful in her work with the Burnett story, in settings, castings and directing.

"The Secret Garden" one of the loveliest stories in children's literature, carries a forceful message in behalf of peace and security, which Mrs. Major feels is "much needed" by both the children and grown-ups of the country at this time.

In speaking of scenery used in this production, Mrs. Major says: "When they see this play, I believe that the children will feel that they are actually meeting Mrs. Burnett's fascinating characters in one of the stately homes of England and that the peaceful moors lie just beyond the window."

Y.W. Mothers' Club Newlyweds to Make Has January Meeting Warren Their Home

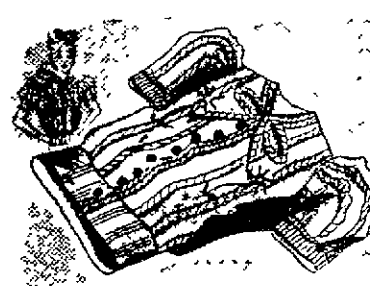

The January meeting of the Girl Reserve Mothers' Club was held in the activities building Wednesday afternoon, with Mrs. L. R. Sherwood, president, in charge. Mrs. Guy McCloskey was in charge of devotions.

Mrs. Harold Kelsey was named chairman of a committee for a game party to be held in March. It was decided to hold "open house" at the activities building again on Wednesday, January 22, when members will out and sew for the Red Cross, starting at 9:30 in the morning.

Miss Maryann Brugger gave an interesting talk on her work with the Children's Aid Society. Refreshments to conclude the meeting were served by Mrs. M. M. Graham, Mrs. Elmer Munksgard, Mrs. S. T. Clark and Mrs. E. V. Dorrance.

During the meeting, members did Red Cross sewing.

NEXT MONDAY BRIDE HONORED AT PARTY

Youngville, Jan. 16—Mrs. Wade Ransom, of this place, and Mrs. Hazel Smith, of Warren, gave a lovely bridal shower honoring Miss Beatrice Hamblin, who will become the bride of Clifford Wing on Monday, January 20.

The party was held in the National Forge clubhouse at Irvine, with plans for 16 at a table beautifully decorated in pink and silver. A miniature bride held the place of honor under a trellis of ivory, placed in the table's center, and golden letters on the bride's long train revealed the wedding date.

The time was spent in playing games, with prizes awarded to Mrs. Mary Johnson, Fay Nicklas, Lucille Korof, Mrs. Flora Walters and Miss Jeanne Sweetland. Miss Hamblin received many pretty gifts.

CHURCH REVIVALS

PILGRIM HOLINESS

"And sin, when it is finished, brings forth death" was the Scripture text used by Evangelist H. S. Bennett as he spoke last night to a good sized crowd in the "Little White Church" in Fourth avenue. Some responded to the altar call and received definite help for their spiritual life.

The service tonight is again at 7:30 o'clock and each night, including Saturday. All will enjoy and appreciate these fine gospel messages of Rev. Bennett and an invitation is extended to all to attend the services remaining in this series.

Watch Family Now While Epidemic Colds Are Spreading

At a treacherous time like this, when an epidemic of contagious colds all around you, what you do today may save you and your family a lot of sickness, worry and trouble later.

Follow these simple rules of health: Live normally. Avoid excesses. Eat simple food. Drink plenty of water. Keep elimination regular. Take some exercise daily—preferably outdoors. Get plenty of rest and sleep.

Then use these two time-tested treatments when needed.

AT THE FIRST SNITZLE, SNEEZE OR NASAL IRRITATION... put a few drops of Vicks VapoRub on each nostril. This helps to prevent many colds from developing, because VapoRub is expressly designed to help Nature's own defenses against colds. (If a head cold causes stuffiness, you'll find that a few drops of VapoRub helps clear the clogging mucus and makes breathing freer and easier.)

IF A CHEST COLD OR COUGHING COLD DEVELOPS (some colds get by all precautions) use Vicks VapoRub to relieve misery. Rub VapoRub on throat, chest and back and cover with a warm cloth. VapoRub acts to bring relief 2 ways at once. It stimulates surface of chest and back like a poultice. At the same time it releases helpful medicinal vapors that are breathed direct into the irritated air passages.

Both Vapo-nol and VapoRub have been tested through years of use in millions of homes. When you use these two medicines you are not experimenting, you are not taking needless chances. Remember: If the condition of the cold fails to respond quickly to treatment—or if more serious trouble is indicated—call your family physician right away. In the meantime be prepared! Get a bottle of Vicks Vapo-nol and a jar of Vicks VapoRub today—have them handy, ready to use.

Girl Scout Council Officers Are Elected at Annual Meeting Here

Mrs. T. L. Armstrong was re-elected commissioner of the Warren County Girl Scout Council at the annual meeting held at her home on Tuesday afternoon.

Other officers for the coming year are first deputy commissioner, Mrs. R. W. Mackay; second deputy commissioner, Mrs. E. E. Koebley; third deputy commissioner, Mrs. A. M. Lopez, Sr.; secretary, Mrs. William F. Crosslet; treasurer, Harold McNulty; assistant treasurer, Mrs. E. E. Koebley.

New members elected to the council for three-year terms were Mrs. Benjamin K. Connelly, Ludlow; Mrs. A. A. Grant, Sugar Grove; Mrs. Sidney D. Blackman, Mrs. Clifford Johnson and Mrs. Vance Weld, all of Warren. Mrs. William Glassman, of Warren, was re-elected for a like term.

Mrs. E. P. Wroth, chairman of the organization committee, reported that there are 40 troops of Girl Scouts and Brownie Scouts active under the jurisdiction of the Warren County Council. She said that 36 of these are registered, with a total girl membership of 568. Leaders' troop committee members and council members total 184, with a total registered membership of 752. Girls and leaders active but not registered bring the number of girls and women working in Scouting to more than 800.

Mrs. A. M. Lopez, Sr. reported a year of great accomplishment for the council committee, with the building of the new swimming pool at Camp Birdsall Edey as the major project.

Mrs. Nelson Johnson gave a resume of activities of the program committee in 1940. The tree planting and dedication at camp in May in cooperation with the camp committee, the fall get-together in October, the "Scout's Own" at Beatty school on Girl Scout Sunday and the celebration of "Twelfth Night" in cooperation with the public relations committee were all listed among projects. She reminded members, also, that classes in first aid and other subjects during the year gave directly to the girls training which will help them progress in Girl Scouting.

Mrs. R. W. Mackay reported on the work of the Girl Scout Service Bureau, which is also under the jurisdiction of the program committee, showing that this newest interpretation of Girl Scout work gives to those 12 years and over an opportunity to use their talents and training for service in the community. More than 60 girls are enrolled in Warren alone and the variety of work done since October includes running errands, working on drives, office work, knitting and sewing. Organizations with which the bureau has cooperated are the Red Cross, Bundles for Britain, Warren Relief Association, and the Lions Club in its work for the prevention of tuberculosis.

Mrs. Koebley reported for the public relations committee that the media for publicity used during the year included the newspaper, printed reports, public gatherings, moving pictures, posters and exhibits. The report of the committee's activities from September, 1939, to June, 1940, was submitted to the national contest in public relations to receive an award for its work.

New council members present for their first meeting were Dr. Jane Dunaway, Mrs. Warren Stone, Mrs. George Monroe and Mrs. Walter Cox, of Ludlow.

Owners everywhere praise Fluid Drive* and other features of the New 1941 Dodge

WE went straight to Dodge owners themselves...asked 5,000 of them what they like most about their new 1941 Dodge. And what a response we got!

SYRACUSE MAN SAYS...Here, for example, is a typical telegram just received...“Our new Dodge rides like a dream...haven't yet seen equal of Dodge hydraulic brakes...wife delighted with beauty and roominess of Dodge interior.”

BIRMINGHAM FAMILY DELIGHTED...“Entire family crazy about Dodge Fluid Drive...works like magic in city traffic...makes driving marvelously smooth and simple.” And, of course, telegrams galore gave Dodge Fluid Drive tremendous approval.

When Dodge owners themselves are so enthusiastic, no wonder this big new Luxury Liner is called 41's great car value! And remember, with Fluid Drive* you shift gears or not, just as you wish. Nothing new to learn...just less to do! Call on your Dodge dealer for a demonstration. And ask him about the Easy Budget Terms.

Mrs. Mabel Bowen Suggests That January Inventory Extend Into Important Realm of Light Housekeeping--And She Means Light

Dear Friends in Warren:

"The melancholy days have come." That does not refer entirely to the "let-down" after the holidays, but it is associated with the inventory theme for which January is noted.

Why not extend the household inventory beyond the linen closet needs that are emphasized so steadily by tempting White Sales? Why not consider the glow of the short and melancholy days when sunshine is so skimpy that many of our waking hours must be spent under artificial light. Is that artificial light all it should be?

Here is a question that comes close to home for two reasons: A wife and mother is charged with making home a better place for her family to live and a more attractive place for her guests to visit. Her first and truly precious obligation is the oversight of the family entrusted to her care. Yet both obligations may be discharged easily and economically by providing the right amount of light wherever light is needed.

It is not surprising that a woman has set down the simple rules for good home lighting. In giving them to me, Miss Myrtle Fahn, Director of Home Lighting, speaks for the many different members of the electrical industry who wholeheartedly subscribe to the A-B-C's of good lighting laid down by an impartial body of scientists, the Illuminating Engineering Society. Here they are:

1. Have enough light for the seeing task to be done.
2. Avoid glare.
3. Avoid contrasts.
4. There must be correct direction of light.

Rule 1. Obviously, the human eye changes with age and with the seeing tasks imposed upon it. But certain minimum requirements have been established as a guide. They are:

30-100 foot candles for severe work over a long period of time, such as difficult reading, sewing on dark materials and very fine needlework.

25-50 foot-candles for moderately critical and prolonged work, such as reading newspapers, sewing on light-colored materials, knitting, studying, etc.

10-20 foot-candles for moderate tasks where no severe eye work is done, such as reading large print magazines, card playing, working areas in kitchen, laundry, etc.

Less than 10-foot candles is inadequate for most visual tasks. (Note: The "foot-candle" is the unit of measurement most intimately associated with every-day use of light. A working idea of this unit may be obtained by holding a lighted candle 1 foot distant from a newspaper. That, approximately, is 1 foot-candle of illumination.)

That's all very well. I can hear you saying, but how can the average woman figure out these different requirements? Establishing these home standards is not a matter of guesswork. The Home Lighting Advisor of the electric light company in the majority of localities will be sent to any home without charge and will bring a Light Meter with her. That little instrument will measure the amount of light in your home and will enable you to judge for yourself whether or not your present lighting is sufficient.

This is not a round-about way of increasing your electric bill, since statistics show that poor illumination usually costs as much as good lighting. The Light Meter is a safeguard against wasting light that probably could be used to practical advantage elsewhere in the same room.

Rule 2. Avoid glare: Recall the spots that come directly into the sun? That's glare. The same raw, irritating light is produced by bare bulbs or lamps from which the light is improperly diffused or shaded. Avoid bare bulb fixtures as you would the plague. Put shades on drop-cord bulbs. On table and floor lamps, use shades that are deep enough to cover the bulbs.

Rule 3. Avoid contrasts: Contrast is the difference between the amount of light on your work and the amount in the rest of the room. If the light on your work is bright, and the rest of the room is dark, the eyes must readjust themselves every time you glance up from your work. The result is severe eyestrain.

Rule 4 and last. Correct direction of light: Shadows are confusing—to the mind and more so to the eye. Therefore, place floor and table lamps so that the light comes over the shoulder; either the left shoulder for reading, over the right shoulder for writing or sewing. (For a left-handed person, reverse the latter procedure.)

So much for the actual rules of good lighting. Of the four existing methods of lighting the home, the modern trend is toward the semi-indirect or totally indirect methods, because they eliminate glare and harsh shadows. Since these two methods depend partly on reflection, it is important that ceilings be painted dull white, cream or ivory, and that the linings on shades correspond—regardless of what color the shades may be on the outside.

None of these suggestions places the slightest restriction on personal taste and no limitation either on favorite color schemes or the period of decoration which predominates in the home. More and more manufacturers are designing fixtures with these same factors in mind. As a result, the stores now abound with lighting fixtures—portable and otherwise—that combine good looks with good light.

Here are a few points that will help you to spot them.

What to Look for in Lamps: On portable lamps, look for an open-top shade that is deep enough to cover the bulb and translucent but heavy enough to conceal the outline of the lighted lamp bulb. Look also for the glass bowl which shields the lamp bulb, for it has the enviable trait of spreading some of the light downward while releasing most of it upward toward the ceiling.

The I. E. S. (Illuminating Engineering Society) lamps, for example, are constructed on that principle and are one assurance of glareless lighting. In addition, light for general room illumination. You will know the lamps by the non-commercial I. E. S. tag which manufacturers earn the right to display by meeting standard requirements in designing lamps. That is why they are recommended especially for children whose eyes need special protection.

By using a three-light bulb in the I. E. S. floor lamps, illumination ranging from low, pleasant light for conversation to light adequate for fine sewing may be obtained from the same unit. And it will be easier on the eyes if you use frosted lamp bulbs throughout the house.

About Ceiling Fixtures: When it comes to ceiling fixtures, the choice between the pendant and close-fitting type depends upon the ceiling height. If provided, of course, that the eye never is exposed to the naked bulb. Reflectors, either of inverted metal or dense diffusing glass, rule out that possibility. But on other styles of ceiling fixtures, insist on small shades. That advice goes for wall brackets, too.

Doesn't this shed some light on an ever-present household problem? Take your Light House inventory today. Here's to a brighter 1941 in every home!

FALSE TEETH

That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store. (adv.)

Gun Fight Witnesses Overpower Policeman's Slayer

While spectators mill around with mouths agape, George Baxter department store doorman gets a toe hold on Angelo De Stefano, 23, bandit suspect in Fifth Ave. payroll holdup and gun battle in New York. De Stefano was overpowered by witnesses after killing a policeman in gun exchange and seriously wounding a taxi driver. Note other person holding weapon dropped by one of the combatants.

ENJOY PROGRAM AT YOUNGSVILLE B. P. W. MEETING

Youngsville Jan. 14—Youngsville Business and Professional Woman's Club held an interesting meeting Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Paul Getts.

After the giving of the collection, Mrs. H. S. Canfield presided at the business session in the absence of the president, Mrs. Gladys Swanson, the latter being ill. Reports were given by various committees.

A letter from the national president of the Business and Professional Woman's Clubs, Dr. Minnie L. Maffett, in regard to the national project of the B. P. W. Mobile feeding units for Britain. Youngsville club voted to contribute individually to this project and also to take a certain amount from the treasury.

A letter was also read from the state president, Dr. Lyda May DeGener, giving information as to the work being done in Pennsylvania.

Program features included several readings by Miss Rita Colbert, of Garland, and a member of the dramatic class in Youngsville high school. These readings were most entertaining.

The general topic for January meeting was "Education." Miss Lilly Wood gave a most interesting talk on the subject of "Education for Democracy." Miss Gertrude Ostroski, vocational teacher of home economics in Youngsville school spoke on the theme of education from the school viewpoint.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Miss Eleanor Gheing, Miss Ruth York and Miss Alweil.

TUREEN DINNER

The American Legion Auxiliary enjoyed a cooperative dinner at the home of Mrs. H. A. Mourer on Tuesday at 1:00 o'clock. At the business meeting Mrs. Lena Mourer and Mrs. Florence Hyde were appointed the delegates for the next intercounty council to meet in Bradford. Mrs. H. A. Mourer and Mrs. Grace Falconer were named as alternates. A report of the welfare committee told of the work done at Christmas time. This amounted to over $300. It was voted to make a gift to the Red Cross. Mrs. Charles Schnell, Mrs. Woodard, and Mrs. Lena Hendrickson were reported ill. A round robin letter was written by those present to send to Mrs. Ethel Proper, a member who is in the Warren maternity hospital with twins.

When "The Flag" was read by Mrs. Wm. Hesburn, Mrs. Chestey Shattuck reviewed the paper of news received from the Auxiliary headquarters. The secretary reported that the local quota of 46 members had been passed. The next meeting of the organization will be at 2:30 Jan. 28th, at the home of Mrs. Florence Hyde.

ENTERTAIN CLASS

Miss Nina Wingard entertained her Methodist Sunday school class of little people at her home on Monday evening. Miss Wingard expects to leave the end of this month to take up nursing training at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Olive Krimbill entertained the Violet Circle at her home on Tuesday afternoon.

Elmer Murray was taken to the Warren hospital this week. Mrs. Murray is also ill.

The Legion had an especially interesting meeting at their rooms on Monday evening. There was a large number of men out. A committee served sandwiches and coffee after their business meeting.

COAL DUST EXPLODES

Indiana, Pa., Jan. 16—(P)—An explosion of coal dust injured four men at the Westmoreland Mining Company's tipple at Truxall, Westmoreland county, yesterday. The four, Tony Cardozo, 23, James Doka, 19, Martin Brownell, 23, and Ortenso Previni, 38, all of Apollo, R. D. were treated at Indiana Hospital for burns on the hands and face.

State Mine Inspector W. D. Wardrop said a blade on a fan used to blow air over coal to clean it had broken off, causing a spark which ignited the dust. A larger explosion followed, but by that time the men had escaped to a safer area.

PIN-BALL TAX

Du Bois, Jan. 16—(P)—Hoping to fatten the municipal treasury, city commissioners adopted an ordinance imposing a $25 yearly tax on pin-ball machines. Other levies authorized were $5 on cigar and cigarette vending machines; $2.50 on 5-cent vending machines; and $1 on one-cent vending and weight machines. This will increase the city's revenue about $2,500 a year, officials predicted.

PURER ALL-VEGETABLE

Spry

TRIPLE-CREAMED FOR EASIER MIXING

Four Square Chocolate Cake
3/4 cup Spry 2 tablespoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt 1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup vanilla 1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup cocoa 1/2 cup oil
1/2 cup sugar 1/2 cup milk

Blend purer Spry, salt and vanilla. Add sugar gradually and cream well. (So quickly done with Spry, 11-12 cups of cake for easier mixing.) Add chocolate, heating well after each addition. Add chocolate and blend.

Sift baking powder and soda with flour 3 times. Add flour to creamed mixture alternately with milk mixing after each addition until smooth. Bake in 10 x 10 x 2-inch Spry-greased pan in moderate oven (350° F.) 45 to 50 minutes. 1 post with 1-ounce frosting.

The finished cake has four attractively different corners, each with a frosting of different flavor. And see how tender and fine-grained our cake is—how purer Spry lets the FULL chocolate flavor come through in all its satisfying richness. Make all your cakes with Spry. You'll get praise galore for their lightness, tenderness, fine flavor!

Four Square Frosting
2 tablespoons Spry 3 tablespoons cold 1/2 cup sugar 1/2 cup milk
1 tablespoon vanilla 1 ounce chocolate, melted 1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup sugar 1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup sugar 1/2 cup milk

Blend Spry, butter, vanilla and salt. Beat in 1/2 cup sugar. Add hot cream, alternately with remaining sugar, beating well after each addition.

Divide frosting in fourths. Spread 1/4 on 1 of cake (1 corner). Add chocolate and 1 tablespoon cream to second 1/4 of frosting and spread on 2nd 1/4 of cake. Spread third 1/4 of frosting with milk and spread on 3rd 1/4 of cake and decorate with nut meats. Add orange rind to remaining frosting and spread on 4th 1/4 of cake. (All 4 corners of cake are frosted.) (Clip and save these Spry recipes)

Magic Spring

YESTERDAY: Two things have happened David and Polly's wedding — the fact that David now must care for his 9-year-old cousin Peter, and the fact that Margo Powers is back in town. Polly insists that since Margo is the daughter of David's boss, he should be nice to her. But she conceals a jealousy that David's date, tonight, with Margo did nothing to allay. David is showing Margo the old and bankrupt inn his aunt left him.

Chapter 13

The Fall of David

"The Inn is all of that," said David. "But it's also a great burden. Taxes, repairs — things like that." He laughed. "But you wouldn't know about such things."

Margo turned to him. Her eyes were luminous, her mouth inviting. She reached up and touched David's cheek.

"I know people who would give a lot for a tan like yours," she said. "Golden brown — smooth —"

"Margo, listen, I—I—" David began.

And then Margo was in his arms. She was clinging to him. He was kissing her on the eyelids, on the mouth, kissing her with a sort of wild abandon he had never known he was capable of, holding her to him, close—close—

"David—David—" Margo said. "It was as though he had suddenly awakened."

"Gosh," he said. "Don't look so scared," Margo said, smiling. "I wanted you to kiss me."

"Of course. And you do it amazingly well, too—for a young man who's lived in Ardendale all of his life."

"Then you're not angry?" "I should say not! I—I—liked it, David. Didn't you?"

"Why, er—yes," said David. "I did."

Then there's nothing to worry about," said Margo. She began doing things to her hair. "I'm beginning to feel that even a war can do good. It was the war that sent me home to Ardendale, and in Ardendale I found you."

David could think of nothing to say. He was busy thinking about Polly. Engaged to Polly, and kissing Margo. What's more, enjoying kissing her! What in heck could a fellow make out of that?

Did it mean that a man could want to marry one girl, and yet enjoy playing around with a girl he had no intention of marrying? He was all confused.

He was all confused. This was the first time in ages he had had a date with any girl but Polly—and look at him! Acting like one of those promiscuous, necking college fellows he had heard so much about. Being cheap. Being unfaithful to Polly.

"Come on," he said with sudden guile. "Let's get back to town."

"But it's not terribly late," said Margo. "I've stayed up later than this many a night."

"Well, I haven't!" David retorted. "Besides, I've got to get up in the morning and go to work."

Margo looked at him. She smiled.

"Dear, darling David," she said very softly. "He does take himself so seriously."

She took his arm.

They moved down the path to the yellow roadster. And this time Margo forgot all about the dew. And David forgot all about those paces he was going to take, to see how much pipe he would need....

Hitch In The Plan

MARGO POWERS had counted on that evening with David being a sort of delightful prologue to many other evenings with him, but it didn't work out that way. Not at all.

A week passed, and she heard nothing from him. He didn't come up to see her. He didn't call. He didn't write. He didn't even come to the edge of the swimming pool, watching it slowly fill with the water from the spring.

"Look!" said Peter. "It's nearly half full!"

"Oh, David," said Polly. "It's wonderful! Just think, we can have all the swims we want, from now on."

"Sure, Sweetheart," said David. He put an arm about each of the two there with him, drew them close to him.

"Maybe Freddy's Folly isn't going to be such a white elephant, after all," Polly went on. "Any way, it'll pay us some dividends in the pleasure we get out of the pool."

"Right!" said David. "Everything's hunky-dory, unless, maybe, the drainage—But I'll get that going in a few days."

"Of course," said Polly. "You can't get everything perfect all at once."

And you sure worked hard, Cousin David," Peter said. "Every evening this week—getting those old pipes fixed, and everything. Gosh, look! Oh, boy, see that old water pouring in!"

The three of them watched it for a time without speaking.

"I wish I'd thought of bringing along our bathing suits," David said presently. "But I wasn't sure I'd get the pool filled in time. Looks now like it'll be all set for use in no time at all."

"I brought them," said Peter. To be continued

OBITUARY

MISS MILDRED SMITH
Miss Mildred Smith, formerly of Lakewood, N. Y., died yesterday at 6:30 p. m. at Helmut, N. Y. State Hospital. She is survived by a niece, Miss Mildred Gibb, of Orlando, N. Y., and a nephew, Dr. Robert Gibb, of Warren. Miss Smith was born at Randolph, N. Y., a daughter of Thomas and Sophronia Smith. Two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Smith Russell, the wife of James Russell, of Lakewood, and Mrs. Jessie Smith Gibb, wife of Livingston Gibb, of Tidououte, preceded her in death. Miss Smith was formerly employed at the Bank of Jamestown and at one time was private secretary for W. D. Packard, of that city. The remains are at the Partridge Funeral Home in Jamestown.

MRS. EMILY J. COLE
Funeral services in memory of Mrs. Emily J. Cole were held from the home, 109 Russell street, Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock with Rev. J. H. Clements, of Grace Methodist church, officiating. Interment was in the Riverside cemetery at Tionesta with the following acting as bearers: Kenneth Cole, Merton Klinefelter, Leland Allison, Archie Allison, Charles Allison and Ing Hammerbeck.

Those who attended the services from away were Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Allison, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Allison, Charles and Archie Allison, all of Franklin; Mrs. Samuel Miller, Utica, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Glen Klinefelter, East Hickory; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Green, West Hickory; Mrs. Annie Copeland, Tionesta; Mrs. Bertha Beck and James Beck, of Pleasantville.

EUGENE CROOKS, SR.

Eugene Crooks, Sr., died at his home, Friday, January 10, 1941. Once more Corydon is made sorrowful by the grim messenger death.

Eugene Crooks was born September 30, 1861, the only son of the late Benjamin Crooks and Rebecca Ann (Tome) Crooks. On January 5, 1887, he was united in marriage to Eveline Lowell, of Swains, N. Y., and to them five children were born.

Mr. Crooks had been a lifelong resident of the place and his cordial welcome to each and every one will be greatly missed.

He was an excellent citizen, always an efficient, industrious, thoroughly reliable in all his transactions with the world at large; a self-sacrificing person for the comfort and pleasure of others and a loyal supporter of truth. He was a good husband, a kind father and a worthy neighbor.

The floral offerings were generous and beautiful, and attested with mute eloquence the sympathy of those who sent them, and the high esteem in which he was held. He is survived by his wife, three sons, two daughters, eight grandchildren, four great-grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. L. J. Archer.

Funeral services were held from his late residence Monday afternoon and were largely attended by neighbors and friends, and by the I. O. O. F. Lodge No. 1062, Corydon Grange, No. 1205, both of which he had long been a faithful member.

Words of comfort were spoken by the Rev. Emerson Jones, of Clarendon Methodist church.

Services at the grave were conducted by District Deputy Grand Master of the I. O. O. F., assisted by companions of the Past Grands of Council No. 1, and members of Warren Lodge, No. 339, and Corydon Lodge, No. 1062, with Joe Brooks, R. N. Brown, H. D. Kinkead and W. C. Silze, of Warren, assisting, after which he was laid to rest in River View cemetery.

Those attending from away were Mrs. Raymond Geiger, Mrs. Stanley Geiger, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Odell and son, Mr. Ada Platt and Mrs. Morris Poults, of Salamanca, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schober, of Kinzua; Mrs. Mayme Schrader, Mrs. Catherine Glendening, Onondaga, N. Y.; Mrs. L. P. Hunter, Warren; Paul Crooks, Randolph, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Elton Wheeler, Conewango, N. Y.

Pallbearers were James Pascarella, Herbert Layton, Paul R. Duntley, Victor Ericson, A. M. Kraft and Harry Mathew. (Salamanca paper please copy)

MRS. ROY A. ANDERSON
Funeral services in memory of Mrs. Roy A. Anderson were held yesterday morning from the home of her son, Leslie R. Hayes, 7 East St. Clair street with the Rev. Frederick Braundlich, of Jamestown, officiating. Interment was in the Sherman, N. Y., cemetery with the following acting as bearers: Carl Lundgren, Albert Anderson, Elmer Anderson, Clarence Wescburg, George Borton and Lee McDowell.

MRS. JEANNETTE SHIREY
Funeral services are being held this afternoon in the Tidououte Presbyterian church for Mrs. Jeannette Shirey, one of the community's oldest and best known residents. Mrs. Shirey, aged 83, died at the home of her brother, Frank W. Shaw, at Mannington, W. Va., Tuesday.

Grange Notes
SPECIAL MEETING OF POMONA OFFICERS
All officers of Warren County Pomona Grange No. 10 have been asked to attend a special meeting to be held next Tuesday evening, January 21, in the Brokenstraw Grange hall at Youngsville. The worthy master, Leo Johnson, asks that all be present at eight o'clock.

There were 31,009,870 registered motor vehicles, public, private, and commercial registered in 1939. Of this number, 26,142,144 were passenger motor vehicles including taxicabs.

London Slum Priest Leads Flock to Fight Bomb Fires by Faith

Watches Poor Withstand War Without Fear

BY PAUL MANNING

NEA Service Staff Correspondent
London, Jan. 15—Father Grosser is the padre of East End, London. The night the blitz struck that impoverished area he closed his church, donned a tin hat and took food and fuel to his beleaguered flock.

He learned a lot about his people who are among the poorest of the poor. For he huddled with them through nights of terror under dripping arches dimly lit by hurricane lamps. He marched with them out of flooded underground shelters, where the beds and floorboards were floating around in some eight feet of water. He stared with them when they dumbledly surveyed the ruins of their wrecked homes the following morning, their pitifully few possessions destroyed in seconds after a lifetime of struggle.

He has watched them bear these burdens and a thousand other miseries with a complacency born of a faith that a better world will result.

Today, Father Grosser has an unlimited belief that, although these people are tired—very tired—they can stand anything and keep going.

"But heaven help the man who lets them down," says Father Grosser.

A Game They Play—
They will take most anything now, they are tolerating abject shelter conditions because courage and a hope for the future drives them on.

It is this quality of silent courage as much as faith that counts, says Father Grosser. Why, even the children have courage, though maybe a little too much.

They've got a game they play every night when there's an air raid on. It's called Bomb Hunting, and the boys who play it are called Bomb Squad boys.

All under 17, they lounge in the shadow of the railway arches and when they see a load of incendiaries come floating down they will race through the streets trying to beat the flame bombs to the spot. They're usually the first to arrive and often when the fire brigade shows up, every fire is out. One night recently they put out 18 small fires before they could spread.

There's a champ. He's called Pat Makin, and during the hours when he is not clerking in a grocery store he is helping Father Grosser carry tea to the women lined up waiting for the shelters to open at a clock in the afternoon.

Smoke was rolling up from a dock when Pat Makin joined a policeman running toward the flames. Some munitions were stored in that warehouse and together the two battered down the door and started carrying it out. They worked nearly an hour in that inferno, carting out cases of live 12-pound shells and shortly after they had been stacked neatly along the wharf waterfront, the flaming roof collapsed. But the job was done.

Calls It Faith
There's plenty of heroism among the adults, too. Sam Donner and two friends dug for hours through the debris of a wrecked home to save a family trapped in the basement. A time bomb was ticking away and was expected to go off any minute. Eventually it did, but not before Sam Donner had reached the entombed family and rescued them from their trap.

They don't call it heroism, though. The boys call it fun and the adults say it's just helping your neighbor.

But Padre Grosser calls it faith.

Britain can pay this year for what she has already bought with dollars, but when it comes to finding dollars to pay for anything like what they need they just haven't got it.

He said the war was costing Britain 12,000,000 pounds (around $30,000,000) a day, with 40 per cent being raised by taxes and 60 per cent by borrowing.

The treasury head said Britain already had paid for and taken delivery on $337,000,000 worth of war equipment and supplies in the United States up to Jan. 1.

Besides the balance sheet, Morgenthau offered for the record a tabulation estimating long term investments of the United Kingdom outside the United States at a "normal" value of $15,500,000,000, but said much of these could not be converted readily into dollars.

"Because the money isn't in sight," he said, the British purchasing commission here had virtually ceased placing further orders for needed supplies.

At one juncture, Rep. Vorys ("Ohio") inquired as to the prospect for British repayment of the supplies in kind after the war, as provided in the bill. Vorys remarked that his 12-year-old son spoke of the British aid legislation as a "lend-lease" bill.

Morgenthau met the ally with a smile. "Whether we get paid back or not, I don't know. And I am not going to make any prophetic predictions."

The treasury chief was the second witness. Hull was the first cabinet officer to face the committee, and an intent throng of spectators followed his every word. He read from a long prepared statement, reviewing the nation's foreign policies and urging all speed in aiding Britain.

"The forces of conquest," he declared, are "now on the march across the earth." Presenting a particularly indictment of the record of the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo Axis, he told the committee that "the law of self-defense" was now and must be the nation's guiding principle.

The Republican members drew from Morgenthau an opinion that, under the bill, President Roosevelt

Lease-Lend Bill Is Defended By Chief Of War Department

He voted all its time to Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau and Secretary of State Hull. In the strongest terms both cabinet officers urged passage of the bill as a step essential to defense of the United States.

When the hearing recessed, Rep. Fish of New York, ranking Republican member of the committee, and recognized leader of the House opposition to the bill, announced 8 of 17 witnesses he had invited had accepted and would appear next week. Chairman Bloom (D-N.Y.) told reporters, however, that he knew "nothing about" arrangements for their appearance.

Those Fish said had accepted included Wendell L. Willkie, the Republican presidential candidate in the recent election; Joseph P. Kennedy, former ambassador to London; Norman Thomas, Socialist party leader; General Hugh Johnson, and Verne Marshall, chairman of the No Foreign Wars Committee.

Morgenthau placed in the committee record yesterday the British "balance sheet" which so many legislators have wanted to see before making up their minds whether to support President Roosevelt's program for making the United States "the great arsenal of embattled democracies."

He said he was giving it with the "consent of the British government" and remarked that it was the "first time in history that another nation has agreed to this nature."

The balance sheet offered this at-a-glance picture of Britain's status in dollar exchange:

On hand, Jan. 1, 1941, $1,775,000,000.

Receipts expected in 1941, $1,355,000,000.

Expenditures to be met in 1941, $3,019,000,000.

Amount left for all future orders, $311,000,000.

"I am satisfied," Morgenthau informed the committee, "that

Miss Taylor, 17-year-old freshman home economics student at the Pennsylvania State College, was slain on March 28, 1940, a few hours after returning from an Easter vacation at her home in Woodbury, N. J. Her mutilated body was found in the driveway of Lemont school, six miles from the campus. Her bloodstained luggage, books and clothing were found near a church about three miles beyond Lemont school.

From now on, Adams said, it is a matter of "getting a break" to reach a solution to either case.

Statements from scores of persons, maps, drawings, results of laboratory tests, and other material turned up in the exhaustive investigations of both cases fill several big filing cabinets in the police headquarters.

The first pressed steel frame for automobiles introduced by the Peerless Motor Car Company in 1939.

That is the treasury's opinion," Morgenthau replied. "Some other departments might differ from us."

"Could the United States seize an alien ship and give it to another nation under this bill?" Fish asked the treasury head.

"The answer is no," said Morgenthau. "There's nothing in this bill which gives the president any added power he doesn't already have."

"Could we give away any of the navy?"

"I wouldn't say the president could give it away."

"Could he transfer or exchange any part of the navy?"

"He could transfer or exchange under conditions of repayment laid down."

The treasury head clashed with Rep. Tinkham (R-Mass.) when the latter asked whether provisions should not be inserted specifying the form of collateral the British should put up for defense supplies borrowed.

"I'm more than willing to hear it," the president said, making the best bargain possible," said Morgenthau.

"I'm sorry to say that I haven't the same confidence in the president that you have," Tinkham rejoined.

Also training there will be the 104th Cavalry, commanded by Col. Albert H. Stackpole, Harrisburg. The 103d Air Squadron will be based at the Harrisburg Airport.

Two other units, the 10th anti-tank Battalion, and the 176th Field Artillery, now are making preparations to go to Fort Meade, Md.

Major General William L. Kay, construction quartermaster at the Indiantown Gap reservation, said the cantonment would be ready when the troops arrived.

He predicted that by May 1, there would be 23,000 men in the camp, with selective service recruits rounding out the guard units.

Odds 5 to 9 Armstrong Will Regain Welterweight Crown

Describes Puzzled By Backing Given Henry In Fight With Zivic

BY SID FUDER
New York, Jan. 16 (AP).—The odds against Henry Armstrong to never get their feet wet, didn't make up their minds today whether the betting men believe in miracles, or simply are afraid of him. In his recent championship fight with Zivic, Armstrong was backed by a heavy favorite, but the odds were 5 to 9 against him.

HENRY ARMSTRONG

And if you will, you will find Armstrong's record in the ring is a record. He has won 200 fights, 177 by decision, 23 by knockout, and 10 by disqualification. He is the only welterweight champion in the world who has won 200 fights.

His record is a record. He has won 200 fights, 177 by decision, 23 by knockout, and 10 by disqualification. He is the only welterweight champion in the world who has won 200 fights.

BEATY QUINTET PLAYS BRADFORD HERE SATURDAY

Basketball fans will get a preview of Warren High School's basketball future Saturday afternoon at Beaty gym when Coach Homer Fleming's speedy Junior High cagers tackle Bradford's youngsters.

The Flemingmen have been going at top speed and many potential Dragon stars are already shining.

The tilt will be preceded by a preliminary at two o'clock between another Beaty team and the North Warren Eighth Graders.

Joe Waples will handle the preliminary, with Manager Murray Anderson tooting the whistle in the main go.

Contracts signed by fourteen bucs

Pittsburgh, Jan. 16 (AP).—The list of players who now have signed 1941 contracts to play baseball with the Pittsburgh Pirates reached 14 today with receipt of the contracts of infielder Edgar Lepp of Trenton, N. J., and outfielder Floyd Edwin Young of Newton, N. C.

Lepp was purchased from the Washington Senators by waiver last April and sent to Stracuse, where he played 163 games at second base. He is 26 and batted .225 last season, but is an exceptionally good fielder and fast runner.

Young was purchased in 1939 from Portsmouth, Va., and played with Little Rock in the Southern Association last season, batting .275. He is 34.

Yesterday Frankie Gustine, who played second base a good part of last year for the Pirates and two young pitchers signed up.

The young pitchers signed up from Archie, Mo., who played with Syracuse in 1940, and John Addis Copple, of Wallingford, Pa., a southpaw, who pitched last year for Harrisburg.

Pitt beats Tech; W. and J. on top

Pittsburgh, Jan. 16 (AP).—Carnegie Tech's downbeat supporters, who have hoped against hope that their faltering boys would pull through with an upset victory like they did last year against Pitt, were disappointed again as the Panthers bowed to the Panthers 45 to 30.

The score, however, was not as bad as some had expected in view of Tech's 46 to 9 defeat earlier this month by the agile Duquesne team.

Washington and Jefferson piled up its eighth straight victory, beating Wabash 9 to 41 with Tidrick chalking up 14 points to 13 for Catering, the high scorer for the Yellow Jackets.

SPORT SCATTERINGS
Bill Rice

We're inclined to agree with the reader who observed yesterday that the Warren Ski Club has made about as important a contribution to sports facilities as any other organization. The newly created ski club now has an up-to-date winter sports center, equipped with a ski tow and shelter, and is able to show an increase in membership nearly every day.

That is to say, the organization by careful planning has paid for its equipment, installed and has budgeted for running expenses from the dues of the membership. It would seem to your agent that new dues of the membership, it has taken the lead, those in charge of keeping Warren on the map could do worse than hold a confab with the officers of the club with a view to developing a better facilities have in this city in another year. Other towns with a better facilities have made a bid for winter visitors by publicizing skiing and skating and the entire community has reaped the benefit.

We thought we had hedged sufficiently last night when we said the Owls were the better team, at least for the evening, but one of our young friends and an enthusiastic booster for the Dragon cagers mulled over, "Aw, those guys just got the breaks!" As Big Bill Hollenback used to say, "You don't get breaks—if you're smart enough and good enough, you'll manufacture 'em." We don't think that ten out of thirteen foul shots can be classified as "breaks." And we'd like to point out that five of Bradford's baskets were made by the simple expedient of faking the guard off his feet, or out of position and dribbling into the hoop without being fouled. We took a look at "Heinie" Kolpin on each of the latter occasions and, although the local mentor is of the phlegmatic type, we distinctly saw five hairs turn gray. The Dragon composite has a lot of potential strength and when it really begins to click it may win back its reputation of toughest team in the district.

The suggestion that boxing needs a Landis was advanced this week by President Joseph Triner of the National Boxing Association, and while the notion has plenty of merit on the surface, it is a little far-fetched. Comparing the major leagues with the sport of boxing is one thing and with thousands of all, dealing with organized leagues is another thing and with thousands of individuals and their respective managers, scattered in every hamlet and city in the nation, is quite another. Leon Rains, chairman of the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission, takes issue with Triner's statement of boxing as a national sport, asserting that the crying need is for a "collegiate" commission in the several states. The Pennsylvania boxing continues:

"Boxing is never in trouble of any nature where and when it is in the hands of men who know the sport and who participate in it. (Ed. Note: We-e-e-e-e.)"

"The trouble is that many commissioners are men who come from the political or business world. They are well meaning and honest and desirous of doing a good job, but they know nothing about the jobs they step into. Boxing has its problems and they are problems peculiar to boxing."

YEARS AGO IN SPORT
January 16, 1921—Nick Wendelboe got 16 points and "Turp" Pedlow 14, but the Nameless Five bowed to the Jamestown Legion last night at Jamestown, 46 to 40. A large crowd of fans gathered to accompany the local basketball players to the proximity of the site is an added incentive, to date only one Varsity basketball team has fled an entry for the A. B. C. trophy to be held in Buffalo next month. That team is the fastest outfit in town, the Baird Tires.

San Francisco Open Pace Set By Unknown And California Caddy

San Francisco, Jan. 16 (AP).—The pace of the professional golfing world set the pace today as the country's greatest linksmen teed off in the second round of the 36-hole qualifying trials of the $5,000 San Francisco match play Open.

Chick Harbert, of Battle Creek, Mich., led the parade, with a five under par 67 for the Presidio course, Marion Heifner, a caddy at the Stanford University course, was two steps behind the leader.

The 25-year old Michigan entry, making his first trip over the winter tournament circuit, entered the pro ranks a year ago. He succeeded his father at the Battle Creek Country Club.

Harbert plodded over a soggy course and through heavy rain yesterday to post a 35-34. Par for the course is 36-35-72.

Heifner turned in a 34-35-69 to become one of two players in an original field of 199 breaking 70. Teeing off today from the 70-stroke bracket were former National P. G. A. Champion Denny Shute of Chicago; Sam Byrd of Ardmore, Pa.; Zell Eaton, of Oklahoma City; John Revolta, Evans, Ill., and Emerick Kocsis, of Detroit.

The only others to break par in the first half of the qualifying trials, were the Argentine star, Eduardo Blasi from Buenos Aires, and John Perelli, of Tahoe, Calif., each carding a 71.

Somewhat back in the field were the winners of the last two open tournaments of the winter, John Bulla and Leonard Dodson, tied with 15 others at 75. Bulla took first money in the Los Angeles event and Dodson was top man in the Oakland tournament last Monday.

Ben Hogan, high money winner in 1940 and Byron Nelson, current P. G. A. boss and 10 others started off with 73 strokes. Two newcomers who barely got by, were Ralph Guldahl, twice former U. S. Open champion, and Harold McSpadden, of Winchester, Mass. They tied with 13 stroke bracket were former National P. G. A. Champion Denny Shute of Chicago; Sam Byrd of Ardmore, Pa.; Zell Eaton, of Oklahoma City; John Revolta, Evans, Ill., and Emerick Kocsis, of Detroit.

BUSINESSMEN ARE BUYING FRANCHISE

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 16 (AP).—Eastern Baseball League President Thomas H. Richardson says status of the Elmira franchise is "unchanged" but he is "hopeful a satisfactory deal can be engineered quickly."

Commenting on the situation resulting when the Brooklyn Dodgers decided against operating the Elmira club after four years, he added:

"Elmira businessmen are willing to pay $5,000 for the franchise to the Brooklyn National League club, but Larry MacPhail (Brooklyn club president) has asked $7,500."

The Elmira community group, negotiating for the franchise's purchase, termed the Dodgers' price "excessive" yesterday.

The youths were selected on a basis of their accomplishments in school and home projects work. Five are from Sugar Grove chapter, ten from Youngville. Also attending are the following: Richard Beck and Kenneth Lindell, of Lander; William Barrett, of Russell; Milla Valastak, of Lottsville; Theodore Keller, of Columbus; and Stanley Lawrence, the latter being in charge of the group.

Score Die In Raid On Nazi Base

(From Page One) Informed sources said a German submarine sank a 14,000-ton merchantman, but details were not given.

London, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The British air force blasted the German naval base at Wilhelmshaven "throughout the night" and also bombed docks at Emden, Bremerhaven and Flushing, the Air Ministry announced today. Airdromes in northwest Germany and Holland and the harbor at Brest, in German-occupied France, were attacked simultaneously by other British air units, a communiqué declared.

One British plane was reported missing. The raid on Wilhelmshaven, the 40th directed at that base since the outset of the war, was described by official circles as "the heaviest and most successful yet," and the Air Ministry said "extensive fires" had been started.

Besides striking at the naval base, the RAF was said to have smashed at German forces in "invasion ports" and around advance airdromes used for attacks on Britain.

Towns on the English east coast, the Midlands and London received the destructive attention of German bombers during the night. The Nazi attack on the British capital—the first after dark since Sunday—started shortly before midnight, much later than usual. Herbert Morrison, Minister of Home Security, signed a draft order last night which would compel all Britons between the ages of 16 and 60 to register for duty as fire guards, women will be required to register along with men under this most drastic civilian call of the war, but will be called only in extreme cases.

This "basic figure" pattern is fitted and adjusted to your exact measurements in tissue; then cut out in muslin for a permanent record. Pin your dress patterns to it, make the necessary changes, and the finished frock will fit with perfection. Designed for sizes 14 to 20; 32 to 50. Size 16 requires 3 to 3 1/2 yards 36 inch fabric. Price 15c. Send your order to Warren Times-Mirror, Pattern Department, 243 West 17th St., New York, N. Y.

Hoover Wants Committee to Define Powers

(From Page One) Hoover said there were many other questions which have been raised, among them time and expenditures limits, and added: "It seems to me urgent that these matters should be at once clarified because the public mind is apprehensive and confused. If the committee would at once draft into the bill positive definitions of what these powers are and specifically exclude what they are not, I am sure such an early action would enable concrete debate and eliminate much controversy and bitterness. As I said, it would greatly contribute to national unity."

REACH TRUCE IN LABOR DISPUTE

Detroit, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Strikers began returning to work in the Ford Motor Company plants today under a peace plan speeded into effect in the name of national defense. Four plants closed by sympathy strikes were reopened, and at a fifth at Saginaw, Mich., scene of the original dispute, preparations were made for carrying out a rehiring plan.

The company and the striking CIO-United Automobile Workers reached an agreement last night, 36 hours after Federal Conciliator James F. Dewey had demanded that the strikes cease and that the company reopen its closed plants.

The strikes, which had threatened to interrupt production of airplane parts for defense orders, began Monday in the Saginaw plant with the UAW-CIO charging that the company refused to keep a rehiring agreement reached after a walkout in November.

Sympathy strikes in the CIO union followed at plants in Detroit, Battle Creek and Marshall, Mich., and at Cleveland. All four of these plants were closed, while the Saginaw plant continued operations.

The National Labor Relations Board is currently hearing arguments of the UAW-CIO's petition for an employee election at Saginaw.

Cruiser Is Sunk By Own Crew

(From Page One) British RAF bombers pounded the Wilhelmshaven naval base overnight and smashed at the German air base at Ostfriesland, Sicily, and the springboard for a Nazi aerial offensive against the British Mediterranean fleet.

Even as reports were made on these assaults, fresh details emerged today of the "seven hours of hell" rained on the aircraft carrier Illustrious by German dive-bombers Jan. 10.

Hitler's High Command acknowledged 20 killed and 35 wounded in the RAF's night-long assault on Wilhelmshaven, which the British described as "the heaviest and most successful" in a series of 40 attacks on the port.

RAF pilots said fires started at the naval station were so fierce and widespread they had difficulty picking out specified targets.

An Associated Press correspondent aboard the Illustrious reported that 50 Nazi planes dropped 100,000 pounds of huge explosives and "many torpedoes" whose concussion, he said, shook the 23,000-ton ship "as a cat shakes a rat."

While RAF bombers carried out widespread overnight attacks, Minister of Health Malcolm MacDonald ordered compulsory removal from greater London of all children under 14 who might suffer "in mind or body" from the Germans aerial siege of the city—now in its fifth month.

German night raiders dropped "a considerable number" of incendiary bombs in London, the empire capital's first attack after dark since Sunday, and the government reported most of the casualties occurred when a single bomb demolished a building occupied by an undisclosed number of persons.

Other Nazi planes dropped bombs in towns along the east coast and in the Midlands. In the Libyan desert campaign, British troops besieging 30,000 Italians at Tobruk took advantage of a respite in a 7-day sandstorm to prepare for the final assault on the Fascist garrison.

In the Albanian battlefield, the Greeks were reported to have seized important mountain heights north of Klisura, taking the Italians by surprise by attacking during a severe snowstorm.

The Greeks continued their victorious advance, an Athens government spokesman declared. In Tokyo, the Japanese press urged haste in pushing Japan's "southward program" and exhorted the government to prepare for resolute action to offset a British and American influence in east Asia.

Accidents And Deaths Caused By Icy Highways

(From Page One) While sweeping snow, Automobiles, even those with chains, skidded dangerously—and many crashed. In Philadelphia, a bus slid against a pole, injuring two passengers. The affected area embraced all of eastern Pennsylvania westward to beyond Harrisburg. Snow, sleet and some ice were reported on the Pennsylvania turnpike and caution was advised but highways in the western counties generally were not particularly slippery, the Pittsburgh Auto Club reported. Freezing rains were predicted for later in the day, however. New snow fell in the southwestern counties and in the eastern section southward to Reading. It averaged about an inch in depth.

TIMES TOPICS

CHIMNEY FIRE

The fire department was called to the residence of Axel Hultman, 510 Lexington avenue, at 10:55 a. m. today to extinguish a chimney fire.

RELEASED FROM JAIL

John Ponsoli, of this city, sentenced to serve nine months in the county jail on a charge of turning in false fire alarms, was released yesterday afternoon on the recommendation of county authorities and placed on parole. Ponsoli had served five months of the sentence.

SENT TO WORKHOUSE

Charles Knowlton, of this city, pleaded guilty at court yesterday afternoon to a charge of larceny by bailee and was sentenced by Judge Charles Hubbard, of McKean county, specially presiding, to serve not less than ten months nor more than 20 months in the Allegheny county workhouse. Knowlton was arrested in Cleveland last week following speedy investigation by Sheriff Stuart and District Attorney Goldstein of the theft of a number of radios from a truck which Knowlton was driving between Chicago and Philadelphia. Nearly all of the 112 radios were recovered.
